McCoy liquor hearing underway

by Jeff Nazzaro

The state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission Wednesday morning initiated its hearing on behalf of Selectman Michael McCoy, who is appealing the decision of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen board not to grant his Michael's Place restaurant a liquor license on Aug. 21 of last year.

The assembled body in the hallway outside the ABCC hearing room, located on the 22nd floor of the Saltonstall Building in Boston, resembled something of a who's who of Wilmington politics. With a few exceptions, all the major players (as well as the minor ones) in the McCoy-Allan saga were there, including Selectman Chairman Diane Allan, McCoy, Town Counsel Alan Altman, George Allan, former selectmen Gerald Duggan and Chester Bruce, current selectmen Robert Cain and Dan Wandell, Police Chief Bobby Stewart, Rocky Yentile, Danielle McCoy and John Forrest. But after a motion from McCoy's attorney, Daniel J. O'Connell III, of Boston, all potential witnesses, save Wandell and Cain, were sequestered outside the hearing room.

ABCC commissioner Frederick V. Riley was assigned as hearing officer and he heard around one hour of testimony from Selectmen Chairman Diane Allan, who was asked and questioned by O'Connell. Following O'Connell's questions, Riley suspended the hearing to Feb. at 9:30 a.m.

A pre-hearing conference between O'Connell and Altman effectively broke the hearing down into two major components: the character of the prospective licensee, McCoy, and Allan's alleged bias against the same. At the Aug. 21 selectmen's meeting, the board voted 2-2 against issuing the license, with Allan and Wandell voting in the negative and Cain and Selectman Jim Rooney, who was not present Wednesday, registering in the affirmative.

The ABCC decided to take up the issue of bias first and O'Connell went to work on Allan, hitting her with a variety of questions designed to show a working conflict between Allan and McCoy that transcended the board of selectmen and has culminated in a grudge. Throughout, Allan maintained she held no grudge against McCoy, stating at one point, "I don't dislike Mr. McCoy."

O'Connell brought up to Allan specific instances of tension between the two, drawing upon a statement read at a public meeting, a letter to the editor of the Town Crier and even a complaint to police against McCoy that Allan made. But O'Connell didn't seem interested so much in the details of the public row between the two that has been well documented in the local press or how any incidents might have made his client look. His aims were more basic: he simply wanted to show that Allan and McCoy have had ill will between them.

Still, Allan, in answering some of O'Connell's questions, hashed out certain of those incidences and brought to the record McCoy's prior beating of Cain.

One such incident, which resulted in the police report, occurred after a September, 1994 finance committee meeting and involved McCoy confronting Allan in the parking lot of the Town Hall. Though both sides of the story differ as to the exact nature of the confrontation, O'Connell played on Allan's feelings of the time, asking questions like "you didn't like that, did you?" and "he was out of line, wasn't he?" But in the end, Allan, who said that, given McCoy's assault on Cain, she was justified in filing the report with police, maintained that she does not hold a grudge, using Cain himself, who has since become a McCoy ally, as an example.

"I do not hold any grudge. If Mr. Cain can rise above being left for dead," she started before being interrupted by Riley.

Riley said that Allan only had to answer O'Connell's questions and that the commissioners would be charged with "finding fact." He later said that "we have to determine your state of mind prior to your vote of August 1995." Riley then asked her, to clarify O'Connell's question, "What were your feelings toward Mr. McCoy?" Allan said she "respected" McCoy as a selectman and a businessman.

O'Connell began his questioning of Allan by asking her why she voted against the license both in 1995 and the year before, when the board also voted 2-2 against a license for McCoy. Upon casting her 1995 vote, Allan cited neighborhood concerns, character and public interest as reasons, none of which she used in 1994 when she based her no vote upon a negative recommendation from the board of health. In 1995, that board issued a favorable recommendation.

But Allan said she did not state "character" and "public interest" because she was not aware in 1994 that those issues could be considered. Prior to Feb. 8, when the hearing will resume, Altman and O'Connell will decide on whether or not Altman will cross-examine O'Connell's witnesses all at once or after each set of testimony is given.

Upon completion of the hearing, the full, three-member commission will consider the testimony and make a recommendation back to the board of selectmen. The ABCC cannot issue liquor licenses and the board is not bound to act on the commission's recommendations.

Miceli seeks snow relief

Rep. James R. Miceli has announced that he is cosponsoring a bill that will provide $25 million in order to provide relief to municipal budgets because of the impact caused by this season's snow removal expenditures thus far. This money will be issued to towns and cities directly from the Local Aid Fund.

The numerous winter storms have depleted snow and ice removal budgets. With many more weeks left in the winter storm season, Rep. Miceli felt strongly that emergency funds should be provided before road safety is compromised.

"This is a time of drastic need. We must help local governments keep their roads safe and passable. This legislation will do exactly that," concluded Miceli.

Dog banished from town

by Jeff Nazzaro

In a canine case that could go all the way to Superior Court, the Wilmington Board of Selectmen voted 3-2 Monday night to banish Winston, a 7-year-old German Shepherd, from the town.

Winston ran from his yard last September and bit 4-year-old Allen Browning on the thigh, leaving a single puncture wound. Four years earlier, in April of 1990, Winston bit a woman on the leg, also causing a puncture wound. Neither wound required stitches.

But Winston and his owners, James and Susan Piro, of Floradale Avenue, have attorney Stephen

Wise, who specializes in animal rights, on their side. Wise, who said he has never lost a case, but loses 99 percent of local hearings, said the chances are "very high" that he will win the case in court because "a judge looks at the law."

"I've never finally had a case end in a dog being killed or run out of town," Wise said.

Wise charged that the selectmen hearing was unfair and that a recommendation from the board of health to remove the dog stemmed from an illegal hearing. He also said that Animal Control Officer Ellen Davis, who recommended that the dog be removed, was not qualified to judge the dog's temperament and thus his risk to the community.

But the board of health, Davis, and the testimony of Browning's parents, sister and grandparents, who told of the attack and talked about living in fear of the dog, were enough for selectmen.

Cain, who wanted to wait for a ruling from Town Counsel Alan Altman and did not favor sending the dog off to be a potential problem in another community, and McCoy, who moved that the dog should be destroyed, voted against removing Winston.

Youth arrested at school

by Karen Miethe

A 15-year-old Wilmington High School student was arrested early Thursday morning charged with being in the possession of a class "D" substance with intent to distribute after WHS hall monitors discovered a half an ounce of marijuana said by police to be belonging to the youth.

According to Lt. Robert Spencer of the Wilmington Police Department, the two hall monitors, who asked that their names not be used, observed four students leaving the gymnasium of the high school through a rear door.

"The two hall monitors grew suspicious and followed them outside but could no longer see the youths," Spencer said. "They looked around, and saw them by the football field house. One of the youths was holding a plastic bag containing a half an ounce of marijuana up above his shoulder to show the other youths."

One of the monitors then called the four youths over, and had to wait as they came around a fence. They were not visible to the hall monitors as they went around the back of the field house. They were then brought to acting high school Principal Edward Woods.

"The youth did not have the marijuana on him at that time, so the two monitors went back to the field house and found the bag and a pipe used to smoke marijuana buried in the snow," Spencer said.

Spencer and Inspector Patrick King arrived at the high school, and the 15-year-old was arrested.

Further searching of the youth revealed he had an additional four ounces taped to the inside of his thigh.

"After finding that, he was also charged with intending to distribute the drug in a school zone."

The estimated street value of the marijuana is $960.

"There is no set guideline as to when we can charge someone with intending to distribute," said Spencer. "But one ounce can roll 110 joints, and this kid had four ounces on him. Just do the math. Do you think it was his intent to smoke all that, or to sell some?"

The youth was arraigned on Thursday, Jan. 18 in Woburn District Court, and is currently at the Northeast Family Institute in Middleton. His bail was set at $5,000, and can only be posted by one of his parents. He will appear in court again Feb. 28.

"If he is convicted, he will be found delinquent and remanded into the custody of the Department of Youth Services. They will then evaluate him and decide where he is to be placed, and he could be held until he is 19."

Both Spencer and Woods commended the hall monitors for the way they handled the situation.

"They were very professional, and I did not hear a loud word exchanged throughout the entire ordeal," Spencer said.

"The two monitors were hired by the school department, and are trained to relate with the kids. If they see something wrong, they confront, but are not confrontational," said Woods.

Cigarette licensing regulations outlined

by Jeff Nazzaro

Public Health Director Gregory Erickson Monday unveiled to the board of health a draft outlining proposed regulations that would require cigarette retailers in Wilmington to be licensed.

The board reviewed Erickson's draft, made some suggestions, and, at its next meeting, will try to hammer out a more finalized version before presenting the regulations to the people through a public hearing.

"I'm not in a hurry," Erickson said about the regulations, "because I want to make some changes." On the subject of a public hearing, Erickson told the board "we don't have to, but we should," to which the board, which reacted favorably to the overall draft and agenda, agreed.

The licensing regulations are designed to put some teeth in the board's by-laws dictating punishments for violation of state laws prohibiting sales of tobacco products to persons under the age of 18. Currently, there is a $300 fine for each offense; but if and when the board requires cigarette retailers to be licensed, the board would be able to revoke that license for a sales offense. The board would also be able to revoke a license for violating the regulations requiring the license.

Other regulations, as presented by Erickson, would include:

- No sales of tobacco products without a valid license from the board of health. Sales include either over-the-counter, by vending machine, or by canteen truck in the Town of Wilmington.

- A $5 licensing fee. While calling this number a "throw out," Erickson said the fee "should be a very small amount because the idea here is not for us to get revenue, it's just for us to cover the cost of the work."

- Licenses are non-transferable and separate licenses are required for each retail outlet, even if there is a single owner.

- Licenses expire at the end of the calendar year in which they were issued.

- Licenses shall be posted in a conspicuous place at the point of sale.

- Licenses shall not be issued to persons under the age of 18.

- A fine of $50 shall be levied for the sale of tobacco products without a license.

Ya ever take 400 people to the movies?

The Boutwell School PAC did just that Saturday, hold a Family Fun Day comprised of a trip to the Billerica Flick, for popcorn, soda and a viewing of the latest animated Disney feature, "Balto."

"There was a large turnout and the kids had a lot of fun," said PAC member Ann Marie Cerra.

The PAC rented the theater, which the Flick opened early, at 10:00 a.m. Those attending, which included lots of moms, pops, brothers and sisters as well as Boutwell kindergarteners, bought tickets beforehand through the PAC and at the theater got discounts on popcorn and softdrinks.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS
Certified Public Accountant

WHICH SHARES DID YOU SELL?

"First in, first out" is the general accounting rule attributed to sales of stocks and mutual funds by brokers, fund managers and the Internal Revenue Service. Or they will lump the cost of all shares to find an average. But it doesn't have to be that way. In many cases, it may be more advantageous to specify exactly which shares you want to sell. If you keep good records, you can.

If your mutual fund dividends and capital gains are reinvested in more shares, your statements will indicate what you paid for each purchase - how many shares at what price. Brokers' statements, too, outline the price per share.

In many funds, the price fluctuates. When it's time to sell, it's generally more advantageous taxwise to specify those with the highest basis in order to minimize the taxable gain or even declare a loss. Keep in mind, though, that only those investments held a year or longer will qualify for long term gain treatment.

Tewksbury residents Andrea Clements (r.) and Jessica Carew (l.), both 12, held their "Help the Homeless" drive on Saturday, Jan. 20. They were very pleased with the results of their Marie Street collection site. People reading of the effort brought donations.

"We filled up all our boxes and a few large bags," said Clements.

The girls were collecting clothes, non-perishable food items, toiletries and old toys. They donated all of the items collected to the Merrimack Shelter in Lowell. (photo by Karen Miethe)

Are our children drowning?

by Jeff Nazzaro

As Tewksbury grapples with an overcrowding problem in its school system, much the way Wilmington did two years ago and will do again in the years to come, it is important to remember that the issue affects all residents, not just those who happen to have children in the school system.

We must realize that an educated populace is one that will go to better colleges, get more and better jobs, and commit fewer crimes. We must also realize that issues such as teacher to student ratios reflect on the quality of education and that quality of education contributes significantly to where students continue their educations, get jobs and wind up in the grand scheme of things.

In Jonathan Kozol's book "Amazing Grace," the author devotes a couple of pages to a discussion centered around Stuyvesant High School, a $150 million pilot school in a ten-story building with 12 science labs, five gymnasiums, an Olympic swimming pool, an elegant theater, a rooftop satellite dish that captures data for meteorological computations, 450 IBM and Macintosh computers and a two-story library with some 40,000 books. For all of this, the school's graduates "are said to earn more Ph.D's than those of any other high school in America." While it's true that the best students in the city are admitted to the school, it's hard to ignore the correlation between a top-notch facility and a glut of doctorates.

For roughly the same money, Kozol continues, the city purchased "the massive prison barge that it has moored at Hunts Point in the South Bronx, where it accommodates the graduates and dropouts of much less attractive high schools on six floating floors of prison cells, one of them under water."

Kozol's purposes for pointing these things out are much different from mine, but in our world, in Tewksbury and Wilmington, Mass., education is nonetheless the greatest investment any of us, whether we have children in the schools or not, can make.

Education, good education in facilities where learning is stimulated and free, not cramped and hindered, very much makes the difference between whether our heads, and those of our children, are above or under the water.

Want a new library? Vote yes Feb. 17

by Bill Conlon

Calling a second special town election to decide the library borrowing issue was indeed unusual for the selectmen, but the new Tewksbury public library project has several unusual aspects. And the entire project is now on the line. Voters will decide February 17 whether the new library project lives, or lands in the dustbin of history. It's all or nothing.

Before examining the results of the November 4 special election, where the $3 million borrowing to build the new library was defeated, the background for the November vote should be understood first.

A month earlier, at a Special Town Meeting in October, voters agreed to borrow $3 million for the new library and $5.6 million to install more sewer lines. The crowd at that October town meeting was unusually large, a fact which was not missed at the press table. We in the media predicted the crowd would filter away after the vote on condo trash pick-up, but they didn't leave. Oh?

All those hundreds of people, who never turn out at town meeting, had come for one purpose: new sewer construction.

Homeowners are groaning under the cost of complying with the revised state septic system rules, known as Title 5. Even septic systems that never back up may be deemed "failed," but only after an expensive, mandatory inspection. The big crowd at town meeting wanted new sewer lines in their neighborhoods, period. Only nine voters were opposed to the sewer borrowing, out of nearly 300 people. A decisive vote indeed.

The press noted the start of an exodus immediately after the borrowing for new sewers had been decided, which told us that many of those folks had come for one issue, and one issue only. They got what they came for.

The very next article to come up was the $3 million library borrowing, the last article to be decided that night, and nobody was opposed. Nobody at all. The library issue, apparently, was parenthetical to the sewer construction borrowing.

Both borrowing issues were conditional, however. If the voters did not approve "debt exemptions" at a November special town election, allowing the town to raise property taxes to cover the cost of servicing the debts, then the borrowings would never take place.

The sewer borrowing was granted a debt exemption, but the borrowing for a new library was defeated, by a mere 31 votes. A margin that tight is too close to call, and is hardly a "mandate" from the electorate.

Perhaps the same voters who crowded the high school gym to support the sewer borrowing also turned out for the sewer debt exemption vote, and only for the sewer issue? As for the library, nobody seemed to care. That apathy dealt the library and its supporters a crushing blow.

This reporter, while speaking with the library director two days after the special election, watched as four people came up to Mrs. Desmarais in a 20 minute period, saying, "My God, we didn't know!" They told her they didn't go to the polls because they thought the library issue couldn't fail. Others, according to library trustees, have said they thought the election required them to vote for one debt exemption or the other, but not both.

Granted, the selectmen took an unprecedented step by calling for another special town election for the library issue. True, the voters did reject the $3 million library borrowing issue. And it is also true that the library supporters didn't try very hard to inform voters about the importance of their vote in November. The library issue was "in the bag" after all!

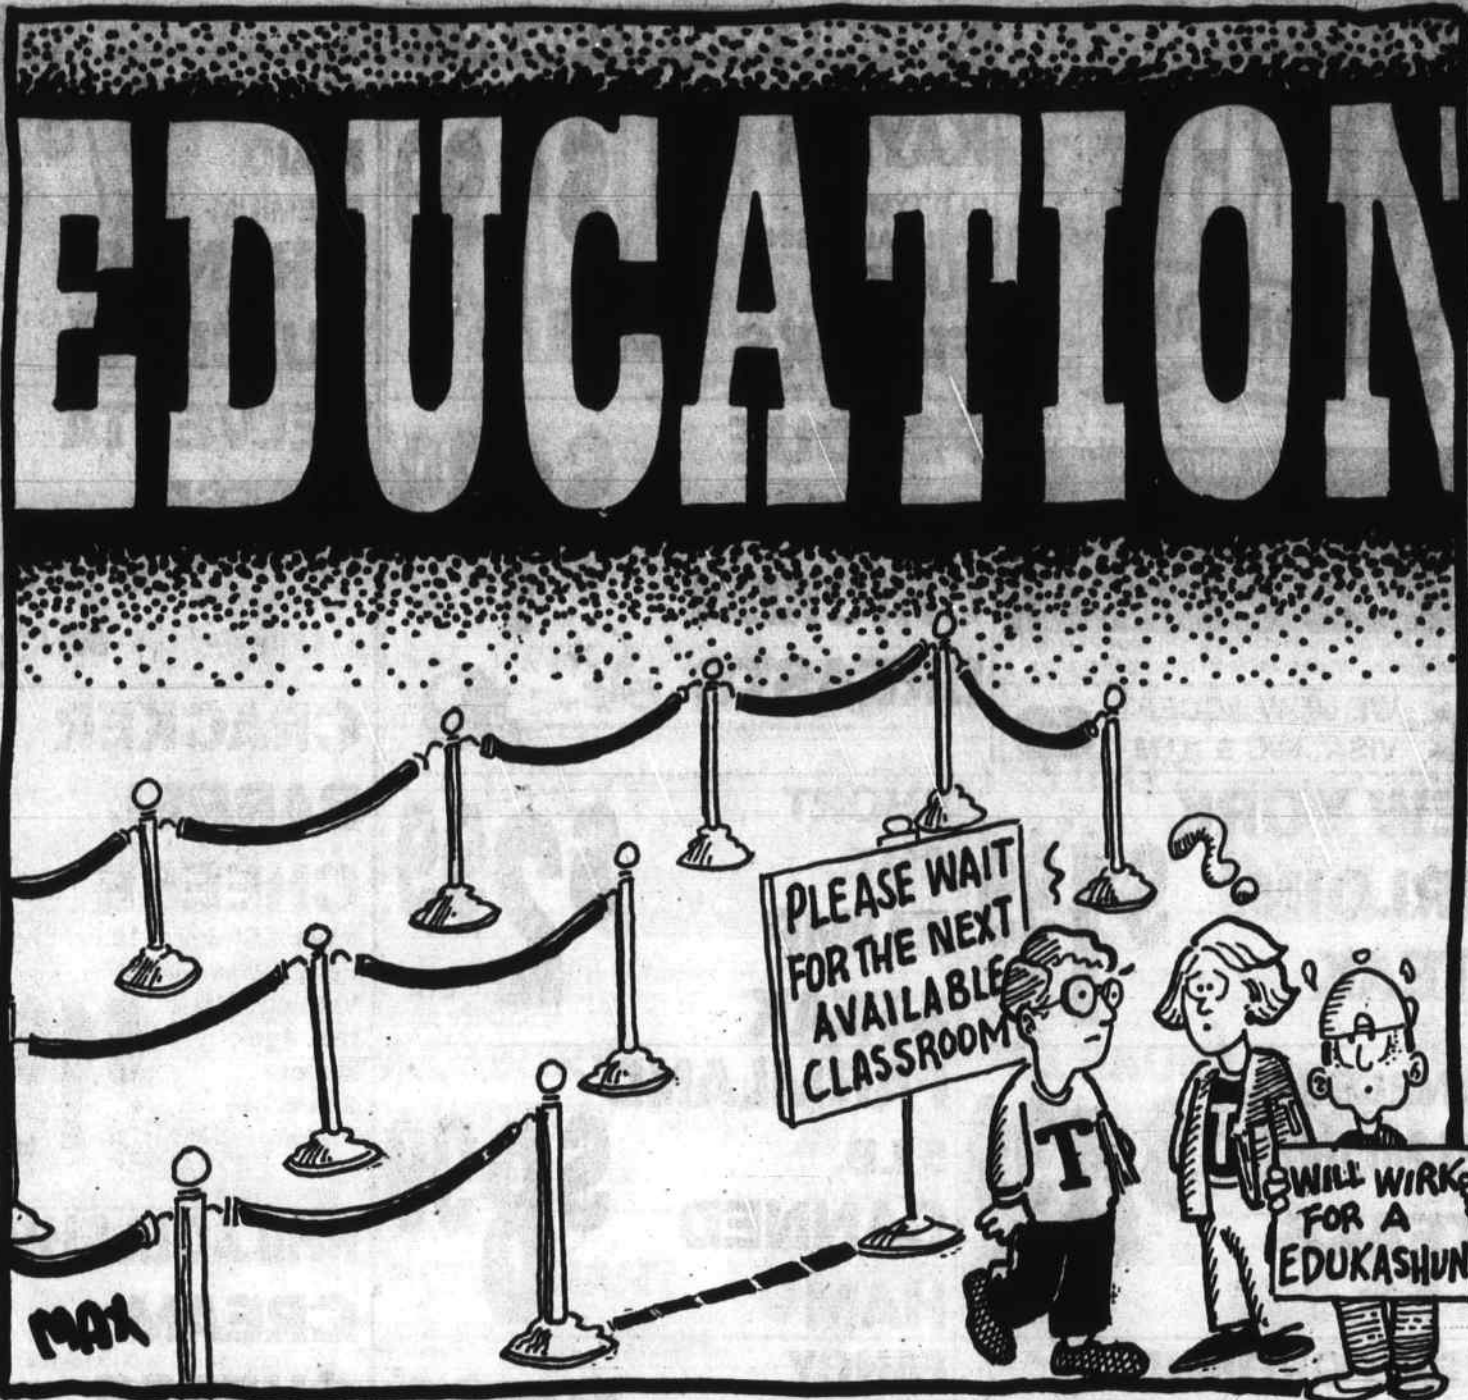

Does the November election result mean Tewksbury doesn't want a new library? Not at all. The library project has received grand support from the community, across the board, with the sole exception of the November 4 election. The drive to collect 1,000,000 pennies is already 50 percent beyond that goal, and in less time than expected for the first million coppers to arrive. Private donations are still coming in, and every effort by the Friends of the Library to raise funds for the new library has met or exceeded expectations. The town, plainly, wants a new library.

Even those opposed to giving the library its "second chance" at voter approval had nothing ill to say about the library project, only against the granting of a second try at the ballot box. Will the selectmen grant another election try to every group or individual who asks? Not a chance.

The Tewksbury Board of Library Trustees this week declared that the results of the upcoming election will decide the fate of the new library.

If you want Tewksbury to build a new library, vote yes on February 17. It means raising the average property tax bill by $28 a year, but is that bad? For the cost of one night out a year, you get a town information center.

But if you say no on February 17, the new library project dies. Gone.

Letters to the editor

The Master Plan

Dear Larz:

As a longstanding advocate of master planning in Wilmington, the League of Women Voters applauds the decision of the board of selectmen and planning board to update Wilmington's "master plan" and strongly encourages citizens to become involved in this effort.

The League's interest in planning and zoning in Wilmington dates back to 1963, when members chose this subject for their first local study. That study resulted in the League strongly advocating the development of a "master plan" for Wilmington.

In the late 1960's, the town, federal government and local industries contributed funds and Professor Charles Eliot was commissioned to develop a Comprehensive General Plan that was completed in 1970.

The plan addressed such issues as the purposes of a "master plan" and the importance of developing goals for the community, which include protection of valued existing characteristics, the effective use of and maintenance of previous investment in the town's infrastructure, development patterns and the provision of essential and desired facilities and services.

The plan also contained recommendations for actions the town could pursue to achieve those goals in order to promote orderly growth and development.

Over the next 20 years, some of the plan's recommendations were implemented, but development pressures in Wilmington in the 1970's and 1980's often limited the opportunity for thoughtful planning decisions.

Many of the recommendations, however, are still relevant. And, because concerns about school overcrowding, the town center and other planning issues have recently become an issue, the League is encouraged that the town is planning to revisit and update the 1970 Comprehensive General Plan.

A Master Plan Advisory Committee is now being formed to accomplish this task. In addition to representatives from various boards in town, the board of selectmen and planning board are accepting applications from residents who are interested in participating in this effort.

In keeping with its goal of promoting the informed and active participation of citizens in government, the League of Women Voters encourages citizens to volunteer to serve on the advisory committee. Applications may be obtained from the town manager's office. The application deadline is Jan. 31.

Sincerely,
M. Barbara Sullivan, President
League of Women Voters of Wilmington

Parents be aware

Dear Larz:

To Shawshen School parents: Shawshen School bus riders were released from school early on Wednesday, Jan. 10, 1996. Superintendent O'Donnell informed principal Richard Gorham to release the students early. The teachers and students were informed, as well as the bus company.

However, no one informed the parents of the children riding the buses.

My 7-year-old son was let off of a bus on Boutwell Street (his usual stop) and had to walk home unattended. A 7-year-old child was forced to walk home under severe weather conditions and horrendous road conditions.

This is not something that I as a parent would have allowed had I known. I did not know. I was not informed, no one called and no announcement was made on either radio or television.

When I spoke with Mr. Gorham the following day, he responded that it was not his responsibility to take the children from the bus stop to the home. Of course it isn't, it's the parents'; but how are we to fulfill our responsibility in that respect if we are not informed? What I believe is Mr. Gorham's responsibility, is to inform us of any change in scheduling.

Mr. Gorham's explanation to me was that three years ago he had an early dismissal situation and at that time discovered that the emergency phone list did not work. He stated that with only two phone lines in the school and so many parents to call, it was impossible to reach everyone. When I asked if this year he had instructed his secretary to try to call any parents, the answer was no.

To all parents of Shawshen School bus riders: be aware.

Mr. Gorham told me that he has been aware for three years that he is unable to inform us when he has to release our children early. Also, because of the consequences of this problem, I as a parent am very aware.

I was forced to become aware, my son was forced to become aware. My son was forced into a very dangerous situation because I was not aware at the time.

I would like to take the responsibility to inform the other parents of Shawshen bus riders that your children can be released from the school early without your permission or consent; your children can be deposited upon a hazardous, snow-covered sidewalk without any supervision, at any age. It has happened and I want you to be aware of that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mary DiBenedetto

Give blood, life

Dear Larz:

The most recent blood shortage, caused by severe New England weather, led to an appeal for donations by the American Red Cross.

It is a reminder to everyone how important blood donation is to the maintenance of our blood supply. We thank members of the community who responded by giving the gift of life.

Across the nation, only 6 percent of those eligible to participate in the volunteer blood donor program do so. However, many of us will require a blood transfusion at some time during our lives.

Clearly, more people are needed to become blood donors, during the winter and all year long. Those who already participate in the blood donor program are asked to try to give as often as they are eligible (up to six times a year).

January is National Blood Donor Month. It is an opportunity to thank the selfless heroes in the community who maintain the supply of blood by helping those who are ill.

Donors do not know whose life was saved - only that somewhere a patient has been given another chance. They give their blood and their time to an important, life-saving program.

Blood is a live-saving, national resource that must be available each and every day. Blood donated today will save several lives in days to come.

Most people believe a unit of blood goes to only one person. In fact, it is separated into components to help at least two, and often three or more patients in need of transfusion.

Advances in medicine allow blood and blood products to be used in treating diseases of the heart, kidney, liver and bone marrow, as well as many other illnesses and accident-related traumas.

The American Red Cross invites you to carry the spirit of the holiday season into the New Year by giving the gift that saves lives. Simply call the Red Cross at 1-800-GIVE-LIFE. You can play a critical part in maintaining a precious, life-saving resource for our community.

Sincerely,
Mark Popovsky, M.D.
Chief Medical Officer

Necessity, not burden

Dear Larz:

I have read in a paper that a sewer will pay for itself eventually, but that the library will only take money away.

Then the writer added that the people are not stupid. They knew that a library will just raise taxes. Wrong!

It is true that your taxes could go up nearly $30 a year, $7.50 a quarter - and this is what you get -

Higher prices when you are selling your home and not having to rely on another town with people who are not so smart. They think the library is a necessity, not a burden.

Gary R. Nelson, spokesman for the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, reported that the annual two day Circuit Assembly will be held January 27 and 28, 1996 at the Witnesses' Assembly Hall at 85 Beacon St., Natick.

The theme for this gathering will be "Listen and Learn to Carry out God's Word." It is based on the Bible text of Deuteronomy 31:12, 13. The public is welcome to this Bible education program consisting of lectures and interviews designed to build appreciation for the Bible's value as a practical guide.

The featured speaker, Mr. W.C. Samuelson, is a traveling representative of Jehovah's Witnesses in the New England area. His opening address Saturday at 10 a.m. is entitled "Why Listen to God's Word?" On Sunday at 1:30 p.m., he will present his talk "Why Be Guided by God's Word?"

Tax work-off program matures

by Jeff Nazzaro

The senior citizen tax work-off program in Wilmington has received more than 20 applications to fill 10 positions, and will accept more up to 5:00 on Friday, Jan. 26.

With the response, the program, which a measure was passed for at last April's Annual Town Meeting, is being billed as a success by Caira and Selectmen Chairman Diane Allan, who sponsored the town meeting article.

"I'm extremely excited about this particular program, which is taking off," Allan said. "I'm going to be following this very closely and I'm happy it's finally being implemented."

The program is for seniors at least 60 years old who own or occupy a home, or are the spouse of a homeowner, in Wilmington. Financial shortcomings that would produce "some difficulty in meeting property taxes," would also be considered, according to Caira. Those selected would be able to earn $5 per hour, for a maximum 100 hours, for a total of $500, to be taken directly off that person's property tax bill. Two people from the same household may work in the program, but the total deduction for any one bill can be a total of $500.

Along with Caira, the applications will be reviewed by an advisory committee consisting of senior services director Edith Cunningham, town assessor Skip Moynihan, finance director Joe Peters, former senior council chairperson Evelyn Kominski and current chair Henry Latta.

Applications for positions within the school department, town library, DPW, Town Hall and Fire Department are currently available.

Allan called the program "not so much a gift but a way to earn this tax writeoff," adding that the program provides seniors with "dignity" while being able to "give something back" and also help themselves.

"Perhaps next year we will appropriate a little more money to increase the positions," Allan said.

Tewksbury Funeral Home • 1 Dewey St • Tewksbury • 851-2061

The Tewksbury Funeral Home was founded in 1956 by Walter J. Deputat and his wife Gloria A. (Roux) Deputat. Together, they transformed this Victorian style single family residence, dating from 1895 to its current form. The name was given for the Town, rather than for the family name, primarily to indicate the desire to serve the entire population, rather than a particular ethnic or religious segment of the community.

Walter and Gloria entered into semi-retirement in 1984, when they passed ownership to their youngest son, Joel. Since that time Walter and Gloria have divided the year between Tewksbury, Florida and New Hampshire. Joel has continued in the tradition established by his father of personal service within the community, while continuing to upgrade the facilities.

The focus of the funeral home is to provide a complete range of funeral service. "The focus of our service is the bereaved, rather than the deceased," says Joel. This explains the warm, home like appearance within the funeral home. Contrast this with a typical funeral parlor with its rows of chairs arranged to face toward the deceased. "Our arrangement is much more conducive to the healing process, which is, before all else, our primary concern."

In response to a growing demand by today's population, the funeral services offered have expanded into pre-planning of funeral services. With the ability to "customize" a package to fit a particular need, and the addition of membership into the "Forethought" Group, the Tewksbury Funeral Home continues to offer the best value available to today's consumer.

Personalized service, beautiful building, central location, and staff experience are but a few reasons why more people choose the Tewksbury Funeral Home in their hour of need.

After school TV production

by Karen Miethe

The after-school video club returns to Wilmington's Community Access Station for a second year beginning Feb. 6.

The class is open to students in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grade classes and will meet on Tuesday afternoons at 3 p.m.

According to Production Technician David Gauthier, the program is "based on studio production and teaching kids to make their own programs."

Kids will learn how to produce their own studio program as a group and also the basics of camera operation and computer graphics.

The content of these programs will be left entirely up to the kids involved.

"If the kids want to make a show about sports, then that's what we'll do. Last year around Halloween they put on a show about how to apply Halloween make-up, so it really is up to them," Gauthier said.

The class will run through March 5, and the cost is $10. Included in that fee is a full-year membership at WCTV.

Said Gauthier, "A full year membership is a member in good standing and can use all of the facilities here. If they want to check out portable equipment, they can."

Call WCTV at 657-4066 for registration information.

Workshops for seniors

U.S. Healthcare, and the Mass. Senior Games have teamed up to present "Fit for Sports" a series of educational workshops presented throughout the Commonwealth for the benefit of seniors.

Offered topics in the workshops will include: Prevention and Care of Common Injuries, presented by Charles Redmond, ATC, PT; Nutrition for Seniors, presented by Nancy Dell, MSRD; and Functional Strength Training for the Senior Athlete, presented by John Marcotte, M.S., C.S.C.S. The workshop hours will be held from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Among the six workshop locations, the nearest one to this area is February 17, at the YMCA of Andover/No. Andover. Call (413) 748-3020 for more information.

This beautiful sampler, designed by Linda Driskell, includes Holbein, Hardanger, pulled thread, hem-stitching, and other techniques. The instruction book or a complete kit in your choice of silk or cotton will be available. Materials are priced accordingly. The registration deadline is Monday, January 29, 1996. 100 forms of arthritis

There are more than 100 forms of arthritis. The two most often found in persons over the age of 60 are osteoarthritis (deterioration of tissue that surrounds the bones) and rheumatoid arthritis (that affects the entire body). Most people who suffer so much pain from arthritis try to stop the pain by resting the joints affected. For many years that was the only prescribed remedy given by doctors. Now experts have found that simple exercises, help a patient feel better. The exercise helps keep joints flexible, strengthens muscles, keeps weight down, putting less stress on the joints, increases blood flow, burns off calories and helps prevent heart problems.

We have a tremendous light aerobic exercise class, ideal for any type of arthritis. It is held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 10 to 11. There is one thing you should know before starting an exercise class. Start your program slowly. Listen to your body. In your first few classes stay at 10 to 15 minutes. Know when to stop, don't try to keep up with other members in the class, they have been exercising longer than you have. You will know when to add more minutes to your program. If you do not like to get your needed exercise through our controlled exercise class you can join the dance class Thursday afternoons beginning at one. Both classes are excellent forms of exercise and free of charge to Wilmington senior citizens.

Income taxes

It is income tax time again. Starting the beginning of February we hope to have IRS income tax preparer Joseph Hughes return to the Center on Monday, Feb. 5, 26, March 4, 18, 25 and Wednesday February 14, 21, March 13 and if necessary Monday, April 1. Please call the Center for an appointment. You will receive the time and day of your appointment. When you arrive for your appointment, have your federal and state tax forms you received in the mail with you. Last year's copy of your taxes, all W-2 and 1099 forms, and any other information needed to complete your taxes.

Shine counselor

Barbara Hooper is our Shine Counselor. She will be assisting seniors in understanding their health insurance needs. To prevent unnecessary or duplicated coverage she will review your present coverage. She will also help process health benefit claims, inform elders of their rights under Medicare and make referrals to various agencies when appropriate. She provides accurate unbiased and comprehensive health insurance information for seniors, empowering them to make their own insurance decisions.

Barbara has been trained and monitored by the Executive Office of Elder Affairs and Minuteman Home Care. She will be at the Center on the second Wednesday of the month from 9 a.m. February 14 will be her next visit. At that time she will have information available for those who may be considering changing their supplemental insurance coverage. Most insurance carriers have an open enrollment time. It is from February 1 to March 31. During that time one can transfer from one carrier to another without paying a penalty fee. This is the same time that Medicare has open enrollment for those who when they reached age 65 did not accept the medical part of Medicare or Part B. You will have the opportunity to sign up for Part B (Part B is the part of Medicare that will pay 80 percent of doctors treatments, xrays, test in the hospitals and doctors' office visits).

Part A covers only the hospital stay. If you do not request enrollment in Part B during the open enrollment February 1 to March 31 you will be charged a fee for failure to accept it when you reached the age of 65. Please call the Center for appointments.

Dinner-dance

We still have openings for the February 16 therapeutic social. A dinner dance in the Tewksbury/ Wilmington Elks Hall.

Wrestling coach takes team back home

by James Pote

Seven years ago, Mike Pimental was enjoying his senior year at Mount Anthony Union High School in Bennington, Vt. In fact, he was finishing up his fantastic four-year wrestling career as a state champion for one of the best high school programs in the entire country.

Today, Pimental is in his second year as wrestling coach at Wilmington High School, took his squad back to his old high school for the first time to face some of the toughest high school wrestling programs around in the Mount Anthony Union Invitational Tournament held this past Saturday.

This tournament featured some of the strongest teams around, including teams from Vermont, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and of course, Massachusetts. Wilmington was tied for seventh place at the end of the tourney, as Pimental's old school took first place. And for a team from the Cape Ann League, Wilmington did very well considering they went up against some of the finest wrestlers around.

"It was excellent. Everything went so well. We didn't have anything to lose and we had everything to gain by facing such good competition," said Pimental. "I really didn't get much of a chance to ask the kids if they liked it or not, but it really seemed like they did - hopefully they did and hopefully we will be invited to go back next year."

"It really made me proud to hear all of the compliments about our team being so well conditioned and how we had so many talented wrestlers. That made me really proud, especially since I was going up against my old coach, in my old high school and with [Wilmington] going up against a lot of wrestlers who I have seen grow up. It was neat," Pimental continued.

Wrestling in Vermont is like baseball in California. Mount Anthony's, now eighth in the country, is looking for their eighth straight state championship flag. They also won the New England Tournament in 1991. When they have a wrestling meet, it sounds like a Nine Inch Nails concert, and back home, a normal wrestling meet sounds like a Barry Manilow harmony.

For instance, instead of the normal name and hometown being announced, the individual records and accomplishments are announced as well as music at its highest notch and the words "are you ready to rumble," being blasted throughout the entire gymnasium.

Finally, during the championship matches at Mount Anthony's, all of the lights are turned off in the gymnasium except for a fluorescent bulb that is above the mat, which glares just on the two wrestlers trying to bring home a big victory in front of a packed house with more energy than the Energizer Bunny itself.

Anyway, Wilmington finished in seventh place, which included having two fourth place finishers. With over 100 wrestlers combined in the 10 weight classes, both juniors Billy Tate and Mike O'Toole had fantastic weekends, representing themselves, their school, their town and especially their coaches in this very special weekend trip.

"I was very proud of both Billy and Mike to bring home medals of their own," Pimental said. "I was really proud of the entire team. All of them were excellent and I really wanted them to do well and they did. It was a fun trip."

Pimental, along with several of his volunteer assistants, left with the team on Friday and came home on Sunday evening. They stayed at a local Army base where Pimental used to serve. It was a true homecoming for the coach.

"I was really nervous going up there. I wanted the kids to do so well and they did. I couldn't have asked for anything better. Our goal this year is to be at .500. Right now we are 3-6 and this past weekend I think will really help us. I really hope we get to go back next year," Pimental said.

Both Tate and O'Toole really showed progress during this weekend. Pimental said Tate had a solid tournament but he noticed that Tate began to get very tired later in the matches, probably because the team had league meets on Thursday and Friday as well as this tournament on Saturday - three days in a row is very tough.

But Tate stuck it out and showed a lot of character. He lost his semifinal match to a wrestler who is within the top three in Vermont, by a score of 16-6. Pimental said that had the match lasted another 30 seconds or so, he thinks Tate would have won it. After losing that match, Tate came back to win his second of the day in a fantastic effort that earned him fourth place overall in the 125-pound weight class.

O'Toole, much like Tate, ran into some tough luck of his own. He ended up losing to a wrestler who took second place in the 152-pound weight class, despite several strong matches. Pimental said O'Toole is 16-5 overall this year and not only is he very pleased with his efforts, but Pimental also thinks his prized pupil can place in the upcoming state tournament.

Not only did O'Toole and Tate win matches, but several of their teammates did as well. Mike Shelley, in the 119 weight class, won one of his three matches, despite being sick the last few weeks. Rob Torrani in the 145 class, also won a match, as did Jamie Campbell, wrestling at 160.

Ryan Brazil, Dan Bonnell, Tom Cassella, Jim Connor, Tony Soroka, Shawn Sullivan, Dave Clark and Dave DiPasquale all lost their only two matches, but Pimental said all of them are showing signs of not only improving, but changing some things and learning other moves and strategies, which makes him very pleased.

"I have a great bunch of kids. You can tell that a lot of the newcomers just love to wrestle, they just need a little more experience and they will do very well. We have some very strong wrestlers here, who just need experience and confidence and they will start to win. All of the kids have really worked very hard so far, and our goal is .500 - and I really think we can get there soon," Pimental said.

In the team's 51-30 win over North Reading held this past Thursday night, Wilmington won nine of the first ten matches, before losing their final four in the team's third win of the season.

After Brazil was pinned after getting his first official points of the season, Bonnell won 23-22 in a crazy back-and-forth battle. Not in order, Shelley, O'Toole and Joel McKenna each received forfeit wins, while Tate, Cassella, Sullivan and Torrani all pinned their opponents, with Tate's being the fastest at 30 seconds into the match.

Finally, against Masconomet on Friday, Wilmington lost 51-12 with Bonnell, Shelley and O'Toole winning their respective matches.

Random thoughts on Super Bowl weekend

by James Pote

Just a few thoughts for Super Bowl weekend ... OK, even though it kills me to type this, I see the Cowboys taking care of the Steelers by a score of 36-17. My first choice for the big dance was the Dolphins - then it became the Packers (who I said would beat the 49ers last year and then win the Bowl - and boy was I way off) and now I guess I have to root for the Steelers because just like every other normal football fan, I hate the Cowboys.

Now to my favorite sport, which is good old baseball, ahh, what a breath of fresh air ... Wil Cordero for Rheal Cormier is like getting a Joe DiMaggio autograph for a Roger LaFr  n  s signature. Roger who? A back-up catcher for the Sox back in '84.

And speaking of Sox rip-offs, how about Ken Ryan, Lee Tinsley and Glenn Murray for Heathcliff Slocumb. I'll admit I'm also thinking about a one-year wonder year for Heathcliff, but Ryan is worth about the price of the old gum in old packs of baseball cards, Murray strikes out every at-bat and is a Mike Greenwell type outfielder and Tinsley is the only good ball player, so it's a 1-for-1 deal, and what a steal that one is too.

Finally for my thoughts on the Sox, how come I'm the only one who is excited about the prospect of having Darryl Strawberry wear a Sox uniform? Okay, I guess I wouldn't want the thought of having possibly four 30 home run hitters in my lineup with possibly four more adding 20 each. With all the talk of the great chemistry in the clubhouse, why would he be a problem?

OK, enough with the Sox, how about the B's? First things first though - I watch the Bruins all the time and I don't think I will ever be able to watch them again if I see the blue dust roving around and the fireworks on my television ever again. It's great to see they experiment, but, hockey has dwindled down enough with 18 million expansion teams, please don't add this mess.

For those of you who don't like the Bill Ranford trade, look at it like this: the Bruins traded Glen Wesley, Mariusz Czerkawski, last year's number one pick (Sean Brown) and next year's number one pick for Bill Ranford, Kyle McLaren (his right knee pad is already better than Wesley) and two Hartford number one picks within the next two years. Cancel out both team's two draft picks (which still is an advantage for the Bruins) and the B's traded Wesley and Czerkawski for Ranford and McLaren. Harry Sinden can pass go and collect his $200 on this one.

The other day, a couple of my friends and I were joking around naming some Bruins scrubs - I guess we were really bored. Some of the names that I said were Cleon Daskalakis, Randy Moffitt, Roberto Romano, Dave Donnelly, Bill O'Dwyer, Louis Sleighter - having fun yet, okay how about John Byce, Bruce Shoenbottom, John Blum, Bill Derlago, Pat Riggins, Frank and Rob Cimonetti, Paul Lawton, Steve Kasper (I mean Bruins scrub coaches), Mats Thelin and many more - we laughed anyway, I thought you might too.

How about some trivia? I heard this one this past weekend at the Wilmington hockey game: How did Hamilton-Wenham get their nickname of the Generals? Answer below.

And speaking of high school hockey, hello Tewksbury. Wow! I'm knocking on lots of wood right now so I don't jinx them, but wow, they are amazing. Just this past week (since I don't cover them) I went to see them play Central Catholic and Andover. Both games I originally thought would be good, close games. I knew Tewksbury would win them both, but I figured by two or perhaps three goals at the most. They crunched CC 5-1 and annihilated Andover 11-1. It looks from the standings, that if they lose two games, they can still go to the Elite 8. And I'm still knocking on every wooden structure there is around me, but, wouldn't that be something? Perhaps maybe the skills competition of the NHL.

All-Star game can be brought to Tewksbury - okay just the radar gun. I would love to see those results.

Did you all here about Al Iafrate? He was tested on the radar gun at 105 miles per hour. Gulp! Just thinking of that makes me appreciate Harry for sending Joey (oh no, my hair - don't hit me please, you crunched my drumsticks) for the Planet. Come back soon Al, the Bruins are a totally different team without ya.

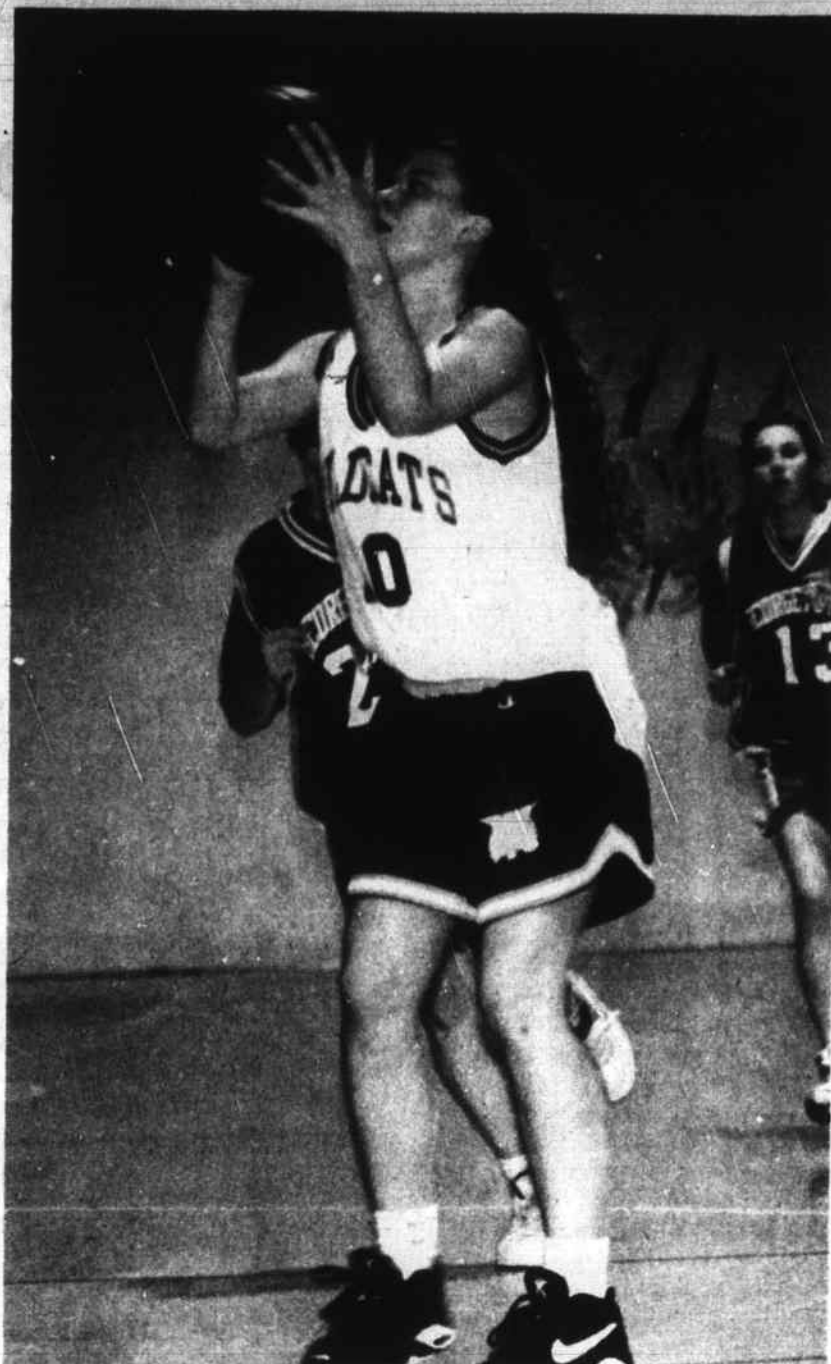

Just a few more thoughts ... I was looking at the high school standings in the Boston Herald on Monday and I noticed something. Wilmington senior Doug Olender leads the Cape Ann in scoring with 18 points per game. OK that was a given. But, I glanced over to the Merrimack Valley and there was Rich Barden leading the MVC with over 19 points per game. Barden left WHS two years ago. The thought of those two playing with Dan Kivlehan from last year still aches my stomach - the damage that could have been done last year and this year! Can you say wow backwards.

Everyone who laughed hysterically at the Sergei Federov commercial raise your hands? Me, me, me, me and me again. I don't think I could stop laughing. The hockey commercials are the best, aren't they?

OK, what else? Hmmm ... Denis Leary and Sandra Bullock movie called "Two if by Sea," very funny, two pinkies up - same goes for Toy Story - excellent flick. And is it me or is Quentin Tarrantino the worst actor? And wasn't Pulp Fiction the most overrated movie? And isn't Conan O'Brien's sidekick really annoying? It's too bad because O'Brien can be funny sometimes.

Oh, sorry, the trivia answer, I kind of went on a side track for a minute. Hamilton-Wenham became the Generals because of their old friend and resident (well from Hamilton), General Patton.

One more thought ... including Monday, the 22nd, there are just 60 more days left until spring. Put the shovels away and bring the bats and cleats out of the boxes in your closet - spring training is a month away. And the first day of spring is 5,184,000 seconds away. Start counting down, I know I have.

Wilmington and Tewksbury Stars of the Week

Wilmington
Brian Farkas
WHS ice hockey

With Saturday's performance, it seems as if the junior defenseman's ankle injury is cured as he blasted three slap shots through the wickets of the Hamilton-Wenham goalie for a hat trick in Wilmington's 6-1 win held at Ristuccia Exposition Center.

Scott Swiezynski
WHS boys hoop

The sophomore came up really big on Friday night in the team's 64-49 win over Georgetown as he scored 23 big points, while, pulling down 13 rebounds as well for the 8-4 boys basketball squad.

Lisa Southmayd
WHS girls hoop

The junior forward continues to get better and better sinking 19 points in the team's trouncing over Georgetown this past Friday night at Wilmington High School.

Southmayd has now improved her points per game total to 11.2.

Billy Tate and Mike O'Toole
WHS wrestling

Both of these juniors took fourth place in their individual weight class in the Mount Anthony Union High School wrestling tournament held this past weekend in Bennington, Vermont. Both of them lost in the semi-finals to either a wrestler who won their weight class or one who took second.

Tewksbury
Andy Beasley, ice hockey

The junior forward continues to become a dominating player with another impressive week. First he scored two goals and added an assist in Tewksbury's 5-1 win over Central Catholic and then he had seven points, including a hat trick in the team's 11-1 bombing over Andover on Saturday night to help improve the team to 9-0 overall.

Dave Shunamon, wrestling

For whatever reason, the name Dave Shunamon automatically is typed into this column every week since its existence (okay, third) as the sophomore continues to become one of the better wrestlers from the area (and don't forget he is also one heck of a football player as well).

This past weekend, Shunamon was once again named outstanding wrestler of the Perrault quad meet held in Tyngsboro, with three victories which included beating a wrestler who was undefeated in dual meets until he met the big and impressive 171 pounder.

Mary Eaton, Jon Bombach and Pat Daykin, track

In another successful weekend meet for the Tewksbury track program, Eaton broke an eleven-year record in the 600-yard dash with an amazing time of 1:31.45. She also took part in the 4x400 mile relay team, which has continued to improve their time even though they didn't place. Bombach and Daykin also did well for the boys squad with fourth and sixth overall finishes in the shotput and 55 meter hurdles, respectively. Bombach toss was 47'11", while, Daykin finished at a personal best at 8.01 seconds.

PHOTOGRAPH YOUR HOME

QUESTION: What is the best way to record all of your home possessions, furniture and furnishings so you can have a record in case of fire?

ANSWER: The best, fastest and easiest way to record what you own in your home is to photograph all of your contents. If you don't have a camera, buy, borrow, or rent one and start shooting all through your home. Get everything - furniture, lamps, tools, appliances, pictures, etc. A movie camera or video camera is probably best, so you can "sweep" each room completely, getting all the items on the floor and on the walls. Keep the photos with your policies...proof-positive of valued possessions.

PHOTOGRAPHING everything in your home is one way to make claiming a loss a lot easier.

Lyman pitches pitching

by James Pote
Nearly 75 young ladies packed the Wilmington High School gymnasium this past Sunday for the sixth annual Wildcat Softball Pitching Clinic.

The clinic, which was run by WHS softball head coach Paul Lyman with help from his daughter Kerri, who is one of the star pitchers on the Merrimack College Division II NCAA Championship Team, was comprised of three different sessions, and afforded young pitchers the opportunity to learn the basics and more to become a successful softball pitcher.

Several of the 100 total (pitchers and catchers) girls came to the clinic to learn from the best and to become better pitchers.

Paul Lyman also recieved help from many other talented Merrimack College players, UMass Lowell pitchers as well as several other high school coaches from the area.

"I wanted to get the finest pitching coaches, high school coaches and college players from around the area to make an effort to combine work, education and fun throughout the seven weeks," Lyman said. "We have always had a lot of fun doing this. [Sunday] is perfect. We have the perfect amount for each group."

Kerri Lyman and the other clinicians had the girls do several different drills to help their motions - since motion is just about everything in windmill pitching - the name of the game in high school softball.

Whether it was staying still with their feet apart, throwing the ball in a full circling motion, or lining up sideways and just extending their legs and throwing the ball with their partner, the entire three sessions - beginners, intermediate and advanced - all were productive. In fact, several fathers even took the spider webs off their own gloves to catch for their daughters, too - it was more than a Lyman family get together.

Below this article is a photo sequence of Adrienne Fay depicting the proper motion for a pitching delivery in windmill softball. Fay, the star pitcher who led Paul Lyman's 1993-94 teams to back-to-back state championships, is pictured throwing a single pitch during state tournament action. The sequence contains nine frames. To simplify things, there are actually four major steps with several different components to each step.

The first of the four major steps is having a proper stance. A pitcher must have the proper stance for any kind of success. Some of the tips that were demonstrated on Sunday included having a comfortable stance with feet approximately shoulder width apart.

Also, (for right-handed pitchers, the opposite for left-handers) a pitcher should have the ball of her right foot over the front of the rubber. She should also make sure that the toe of her left foot touches the back part of the rubber (since a pitcher must start with two feet on the rubber). If you notice, Fay's right foot is slightly in front of her left foot as she starts her wind-up, with her hips and shoulders square to her catcher. Finally for the stance, a pitcher should have a firm, but loose grip on the ball.

Next of the two major steps is that of the delivery. The pitcher should first lean slightly backward, then shift her weight forward as the pitching motion begins. In Fay's fifth picture, she begins to lean backwards with her weight going from her back leg to start her stride.

Then the pitcher should bend forward at the waist, bringing her arm up and locking her wrist as Fay is about to do in the sixth picture. Now, she should fully extend her arm over her head and turn her hips toward third base, but her hips and shoulders must stay in unison. Fay is half-way through the complete circle motion in her seventh picture, with her left leg in a full, yet big, stride.

The entire time in the circular motion, the arm must stay completely on line of a complete circle and cannot drop to the sides which would cause either an illegal pitch called or having the improper technique.

Anyway, staying with the delivery, the pitcher's left heel should be touching the ground with her toe pointing upward, as Fay demonstrates in the seventh picture. The left foot should be pointing straight at the target, with the length of the stride consistent every time and the pitcher should be pushing her right foot hard off the rubber to complete the delivery cycle, as Fay starts to do in the

The third of the four steps is the release. After pushing hard off the rubber, a pitcher should uncock her wrist and snap it quickly as the ball is released, keeping their head still and their body in an upright position.

Finally is the follow-through, which is just as important as the other three steps. A pitcher must follow through with her arm snapping her wrist and hips simultaneously. The pitcher should land on her heel first and then her toe, keeping her knees bent as Fay is showing in the seventh and eighth pictures.

Finally, her feet should be approximately shoulder length apart, square to the catcher and ready to field, like Fay is demonstrating below.

Becoming a pitcher of Fay's caliber certainly doesn't happen overnight. That is why, Lyman and his crew are taking seven consecutive Sundays to show how it is done.

Kim Thomas was one of nearly 75 girls who were taught the basics of how to pitch a softball in three different sessions for the sixth annual Wildcat Pitching Clinic held at WHS on Sunday evening. (Photo by Picano).

Back in June of 1994, Wilmington High School softball pitcher Adrienne Fay was mowing down every hitter in sight mainly because of her pitching delivery. Here in one of her pitches during the state tournament, Adrienne shows the proper technique for pitching a softball. Her head coach at the time Paul Lyman, gave his sixth annual Wildcat Pitching Clinic on Sunday night at WHS. Nearly 100 girls saw how to throw a softball the proper way. (Photos by Jeff Nazzaro).

Farkas, Wildcats, blast Generals

Still recovering from an ankle injury, junior defenseman Brian Farkas, led the Wilmington varsity hockey team to their sixth win in their past seven games, with three tremendous blasts from the blue line as he scored a hattrick in the team's 6-1 ugly win over Hamilton-Wenham on Saturday afternoon.

Farkas scored a goal in each of the three periods, two of them on power play goals as Wilmington improved to 7-2 overall and 5-2 within the Cape Ann League.

After both teams felt each other out within the first few minutes of the first period, the game added a little excitement when H/W dumped the puck into the Wilmington zone.

Wilmington netminder Jason Dango, came out from inbetween the pipes to clear the puck up to one of his teammates. But, he missed the puck entirely. A H/W player grabbed the biscuit and headed towards the net from the far left corner. As he shot the puck from a difficult angle, Wilmington's defenseman Mike Berian dove in front of the net to block the shot to save an apparent goal.

But, after Berian made the nice saving play, the puck went from behind the net out in front, where a shot was sent right in on a diving, out of position Dango, who covered the puck up after it went off his right shoulder. Wilmington took a penalty on the panic in front of the net, but 38 seconds later H/W took one of their own to end their power play chance.

Just 35 seconds after H/W took that penalty for a 4-on-4 situation, Dennis Torpey was in the H/W left corner, wondering what to do with the puck. He looked up and found Farkas wide open at the right point. He sent the puck to Farkas, who blasted the one-timer into the far right hand corner for the 1-0 lead with exactly two minutes left in the first period.

With just eight shots on net in the second period, Wilmington scored three goals to open the game wide-open. Farkas scored his second on a power play at the 6:25 mark with assists going to Ryan Haubner and John Considine. Lee Trimarchi followed with a wrist shot that was originally saved, but it somehow got loose and trickled in to make it 3-0 at the time with assists going to Danny Abbott and Charlie Ross.

Finally, Kevin Carroll netted his first tally of the year at the 13:46 mark when H/W was changing up with the puck just about in their own zone. Mike Berian carried the puck into the zone and he dished it off to Justin Vallas before being hit by a defenseman. Vallas tried a turn-around move about ten feet in front of the H/W goalie, but he was hit leaving the puck alone in the slot area. Carroll came by, scooped up the puck and saw the five-hole and put a wrist in the opening for the fourth Wilmington goal.

Hamilton-Wenham added their only goal of the day on a nice wrist shot to the far corner just 20 seconds after Carroll's goal, still in the first period.

Torpey and Farkas added the third period goals for the final two of the game as Wilmington took it 6-1 in front of another solid home crowd.

Farkas had the three goals, but Ryan Haubner had three assists and Trimarchi and Torpey each had a goal and an assist for the four players with at least two points.

This upcoming week, the Cats will face MVC-Dual County League opponent Concord-Carlisle, who is 7-2 thus far and who also lost to undefeated reigning division two state champions Tewksbury 4-0 (Tewksbury has outscored their opponents more than a 4-1 margin so far) on Wednesday in a non-league battle at Ristuccia at 7:20. On Saturday, Wilmington will travel to the O'Keefe Rink in Peabody to face Lynnfield, before coming home again the following Wednesday to face Pentucket.

Boys hoop team has big encounter on Friday

by James Pote

It took them to win their final four games last year for the Wilmington High School boys basketball team to clinch a state tournament birth with their ten victories, and even though they are still struggling a bit as of late, they need just two more wins in their final eight games to be able to go to the tourney this year.

Scott Swiezynski helped the team take one big step forward to that milestone when he sank 23 points and grabbed 13 boards in the team's 64-49 win over Georgetown on Friday night. On Sunday afternoon, however, the entire team didn't shoot well in the team's 56-36 loss to a division-one tournament bound, strong defensive Lawrence team.

"I knew we would hit some peaks and valleys during the season and right now we are in a valley," said head coach Jim McCune. "Right now we are really struggling offensively. I think the kids are starting to press a little bit. We need to clinch the tournament spot and hopefully the kids will relax and get their confidence back up."

"The way this league is set-up there are seven or eight really strong teams. I think if we can play the way we are capable of, we can beat any team on any given night. But, we are not playing well. We are having problems rebounding, we are turning the ball over too much and we are not shooting like we were the first six games. Hopefully we will settle down and play like we can," McCune summed up.

Wilmington trailed Georgetown by one at the break. They opened up the second half on a 16-2 run and held on from their for the victory.

In that 14-point span, sophomore guard Chris Kilburn really stepped up his play with seven of the 16 points. He ended the night with nine points. Doug Olender and Brian Carroll were also both instrumental in the successful run as they combined for 22 points and 17 rebounds throughout the entire game.

"All four of those guys really played well [against Georgetown]. We played seven or eight minutes of good basketball. We are not shooting the ball from the outside like we can and the only way you can have an inside game is if you have an outside game," McCune said.

Against Lawrence, Olender led the team with 13 points, followed by Carroll at 6, Swiezynski at 5, Jeff Arciero and Brian Thresher at 4 each and Steve Kosmidis and Eric Clancy at 2 each, to round it out.

This Friday, Wilmington will host Masconomet, who is 9-2. McCune said if the confidence of his players is regained, then there should be no reason at all why his team can't give Masco a great run for their money.

Mite C's improve winning streak

Wilmington vs Cambridge

The Wilmington Mite C Youth Hockey Team improved its winning streak to three in a row by beating Cambridge II early Sunday morning by a score of 3-1.

Centerman Eric Ollila provided the scoring punch as he notched his fourth hat trick of the year, but the entire Wildcat squad looked strong in this well deserved team victory.

Wilmington jumped out front early as Eric Ollila took a pass from Justin LeFave at center ice and broke in alone on the Cambridge net to score with only a minute of hockey played.

Both teams then settled in for some back and forth action with plenty of good hard skating, including the efforts of Wilmington forwards Chris Stafford, Keith Irwin and Russell Grant.

At about the seven minute mark Jason Buckley showed some great hustle in front of the Cambridge goal as he almost knocked in a loose puck, but just hit the post.

With four minutes to play Cambridge scored on a good feed out in front where one of their forwards swatted the puck into the twine, ending the first period with the score tied 1-1.

The even play between the teams continued until with 4:52 to play in the second, Ollila swept in on a breakaway, where the Cambridge goalie made the initial save, but when he dropped the puck out of his pads, Eric was right there to knock it in.

Billy Schultes was inbetween the pipes for the Wildcats and he had some outstanding saves, including some great efforts sweeping the puck safely out of his crease. Billy's supporting cast of defensemen included Eddie Tucker, Chris Waisnor, Jason Randall and Albert Fiorenza all of whom played well in this game.

Near the start of the third period, Steve Emery took a pass from center Mike Fay and was on his way up the boards when he was tripped by a Cambridge defenseman. The power play was on, but the Cats couldn't take advantage of it.

Half way through the third, Justin Roberts fed a pass from the Wilmington corner to Ollila who took the puck the length of the ice and scored on a scorching top corner wrist shot from an impossible angle to put Wilmington out front 3-1.

Freshmen hoop 7-1

WHS freshmen hoop continued its winning ways this week as they improved to 7-1, and remain undefeated in Cape Ann League play.

The freshman Cats' only setback was a two point loss at the buzzer to non league Dracut. Offense has been no problem for the Cats who average 44 p.p.g. and allow only 29 p.p.g.

WHS defeated Ipswich 54-27 behind Mick Moroney's 10 points, followed by Sean Cahill, Eric Hiltz, Kevin Riley and Joe Grasso, all with seven points. In a battle of undefeated CAL teams, WHS freshmen beat Newburyport 51-43 led by Mike Gennetti's 18 points.

The Cats also defeated Georgetown H.S. 47-24 in which the entire team scored points, led by Andy Falanga with seven. Other players contributing on offense as well as defense were David Senarian, John Shirley, Peter Bamberg, Matt Kacamburas, Keith Parker, Rob

The Wildcats played smart hockey and kept Cambridge at bay for the remaining eight minutes. With six minutes left to play in the game, Jason Buckley had a great rush but was denied with a super save by the Cambridge net minder.

The game ended 3-1 and Wilmington went on to the locker room with a confident, job well done attitude.

The next scheduled game for the C's is Sunday, Jan. 28 at 6:30 p.m. when they will take on Peabody, in Peabody.

PROPOSAL: The project involves the rehabilitation of Route 133 and includes cold planing and overlaying the existing pavement, with minor widening to obtain a uniform road width. Proposed improvements include sidewalk construction, granite curbing and bituminous berm, guard rail replacements, drainage improvements, signing and pavement markings, and updating the Traffic Signal equipment/phasing at the North Street intersection. The improvements also include widening Andover Street between Deering Drive and the Marriott Resident Inn from two lanes to three lanes to provide a left turn lane.

The project may require land acquisitions, in fee, and/or permanent or temporary easements or right of entry for its implementation. The Town of Tewksbury will be responsible for acquiring all necessary rights in private and public lands. The Department's policy regarding land acquisition will be discussed at the hearing.

Written views received by the Department subsequent to the date of this notice and up to five (5) days prior to the date of the hearing shall be displayed for public inspection and copying at the time and date listed above.

Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to, oral statements made at the public hearing regarding the proposed undertaking are to be submitted to Ross B. Dindio, P.E. Chief Engineer, Massachusetts Highway Department, Ten Park Plaza, Boston, Massachusetts, 02116. Such submissions will also be accepted at the hearing. The final date for receipt of these statements and exhibits will be ten (10) days after the public hearing.

Plans will be on display for one half hour before the hearing, with an Engineer in attendance to answer questions regarding this project.

Squirt A's go into shoot out for their playoff victory

Squirt Highlights

The Wilmington Youth Hockey Squirt A Team fired off three consecutive wins in recent action competing in the District 10 Playdowns (playoffs) of the Mass State Hockey Association and continuing their regular season play in the Valley Youth Hockey League.

District 10 Playdowns

Wilmington 8 Cambridge
The Wildcats and the Cambridge Falcons matched up in a tremendous back and forth contest that wasn't decided until the eighth shootout contestant for each team.

After three regulation periods, one sudden death overtime period and 16 penalty shots, Paul Sferrazza's stellar goal tending and Joe Luciano's goal proved to be the margin of victory.

Early in the game, Wilmington appeared destined for a quick exit from the single elimination State Tournament. Cambridge netted two goals in the first period to jump out to a 2-0 lead and clearly outskated the Wildcats all over the ice. The Falcons allowed only two shots on goal in the entire period.

Wilmington came back to life as the second period began. First, center Mike Rideout grabbed an errant Falcons clearing attempt and netted an unassisted goal. Three minutes later Anthony Tomasi set up Sean Layton to tie the game at two all.

Cambridge struck back early in the third period with two more goals of their own. Wilmington, as has happened in many games this year, was tiring in the final period, however this game was to end differently.

Trailing by two goals with under eight minutes in the game, the Wildcats played their best hockey of the season. Wilmington players skated, passed and back checked as never before.

Linemates Kevin Tobin and Danny Liberty assisted on Mike Rideout's second score of the game to make it 4-3. Minutes later Greg Buck bounced a lead pass off the left wing boards to Liberty. Liberty weaved his way to the slot and retied the match.

The Wildcats continued their onslaught. Thirty seconds after Liberty's tally Danny Zuccaro gave Wilmington the lead. Joe Luciano and James O'Neil were credited with assists as Zuccaro rocketed a loose rebound into the cage.

Much to their credit Cambridge didn't quit. They launched a counter attack and tied the game with just 1:44 remaining to end-regulation play in a 5-5 tie.

The game continued into a five minute sudden death overtime period. During the scoreless overtime, the Wildcats led the territorial advantage in play, but Cambridge had the best scoring chance.

The chance came when a Falcon winger swooped down the right side and blasted a low hard wristshot. Wildcat goaltender Paul Sferrazza responded with a flashing kick save which deflected the shot harmlessly into the corner.

The game now turned to penalty shots to determine the victor. Each team selected five shooters to go one on one versus the goal tender. This format again ended in a tie as each team scored twice with Liberty and Tomasi setting the Wildcat scores.

The penalty shots now became sudden death with the first team to score without the other team scoring in its attempt winning. Each team's first two attempts came up empty as the goaltenders and the goal posts denied any scoring.

Finally the game was decided in the third round. After Paul Sferrazza made a flashing glove on the Cambridge attempt, Joe Luciano ended the game at 8-7 Wildcats as he decked the Falcon goalie and tucked a backhand goal on the stick side.

Both teams should be congratulated for a great contest. For Wilmington it was a satisfying victory after a strong team effort. For Cambridge it was a loss after competing so long and hard.

Wilmington 7 Woburn 3

The Wildcats continued their inspired play back in the Valley League as they swept past the Woburn Tanners. Anthony Tomasi amassed four goals helped by Sean Layton with two and James O'Neil with one. Assists were credited to Dave Velardo, Mike Rideout, Danny Liberty, Danny Zuccaro and Joe Luciano.

Wilmington 7 No. Middlesex 2

Again the Wildcats triumphed, this time rather easily as they overwhelmed the Northern Middlesex Hawks by a 7-2 score. Joe Luciano fed the Wilmington offense with a three goal hat trick. Other Wildcat scorers were Anthony Tomasi with two and Kevin Tobin and Sean Layton with one each. Numerous assists included Joey Girodano, Matt Porter, Danny Zuccaro, Danny Liberty, Mike Rideout and James O'Neil.

Ice, the gulf between two worlds

by Bill Conlon

As if you hadn't guessed yet, life above the ice is a bit different than life under the ice.

Life above the ice is subject to all manner of temperature and climate changes. One day it's cold, the next day it's colder still with snow and sleet, and two days later the whole thing starts to thaw.

Under the ice -- nothing. It's the same. No rain, no snow, no change.

In Summer, the pond is layered in strata known as thermoclines. The top layer is warm, the next layer down is cooler, and so on down to the bottom, which is damned cold. The change in temperature from one thermocline to the next is sharp and dramatic. A very deep lake, in fact, will remain cold enough at the bottom in the middle of August to sustain trout. A shallow pond won't (can't!) stay cool enough to keep them alive, so they die. Sorry, but that's how it works.

All of that changes in Autumn, however.

When the air starts turning cold, the top layer of the pond chills and sinks. (Heat rises, etc.) Then the next layer chills and sinks, over and over, in what is called "turnover." By the time all of the water in the pond has been sent to the top and chilled, the pond is ready to freeze. When the pond skims over with ice, it means the entire pond is now the same temperature, top to bottom. The water just under the ice is the same temperature as the water 50 feet down. Odd but true.

Speaking of odd, we're fortunate that water doesn't behave the way it should. All known substances become denser, and thus heavier, as they cool. Water is the only stuff that becomes less dense as it cools to a solid, which is why ice floats. If water behaved like everything else on Earth, the ice would form on the bottom of the pond.

But ice forms from the top down.

A skim layer forms first, then the ice gets thicker and thicker, while the surface ice remains unchanged.

Ice only forms when the air is colder than 32°F. (Ice can be colder than 32°F, but not warmer.) If the air brings the temperature of the ice sheet below 32°F at the zone where the ice meets the water, the ice will get thicker.

But the reverse isn't necessarily true.

The sun will warm the ice sheet, but only a little bit. Sun shining on the ice causes the ice sheet to warm a bit and expand, and that expansion is what causes the loud popping and groaning we know as "sounding." The ice is indeed breaking during sounding, but it's breaking due to expansion. Still, this scribe can't sit quietly while the ice is sounding. Sorry. To this day I jump out of my skin every time a crack runs between my feet. I'm chicken! So?

The ice will resist being warmed to temperatures above 32°F, for a while. Continued warm days will slowly cause the bottom of the ice sheet to melt, inch by inch. How long does it take for the ice sheet to become unsafe? There is no firm answer that I've ever found.

Factors to consider: How thick is the ice? How long has the ice been kept below 32°F before it started to warm? And of course, what spring water is bubbling up from the floor of the pond?

Temperatures were fairly balmy in the week leading up to this little column. The ice was safe on Lake Mascuppig on Sunday, and I'd be willing to bet it will still be safe this weekend. The ice will be thinner, no doubt about it, but I don't think it's thinned enough to be unsafe. At least, not yet.

If these warm temperatures stay, the ice will get thinner and thinner with each passing day, from the bottom up. The surface of the ice will look the same, and that milk crate will still be on top of Silver Lake, but there won't be as much ice under it as there was last week. Let's see some real cold again.

— Tackle Box —

Lake-Side Bait & Tackle held a fishing derby on Lake Mascuppig in Tyngsboro on Sunday, and 121 anglers signed up, in spite of the Lowell Sun front-page article last week about unsafe ice. The anglers said the ice was eight to ten inches in most spots on the pond, which is a pretty safe layer unless you insist on taking your truck for a swim.

The derby offered cash prizes and trophies in three divisions: bass, pickerel and a kid's division. There was a penalty warning if any angler should bring a pike or tiger musky to the weigh-in table, but none did. Derby organizers said a separate category for pike / musky may be included in another year or two.

First place for bass, worth $200, went to Walter Allen of Pelham, N.H., for a 5-pound-1 largemouth; second place and $100 was given to Walter Wilson of N. Andover for a 4-12 bass; and Ann Cornell from Westford earned $50 for a 3-pound specimen. Mark Arsenault from Dracut took $200 for the top chain pickerel, weighing 3-even; Roland Rondeau of Dracut had a pickerel that weighed 2-pound-13 and was worth $100; and Dave Triakos of Tyngsboro took third and $50 for a 2-pound-8 chainside. In the junior division, $75 went to Billy Lynch of N. Andover for a 2-pound-5 bass; Eric Sewade of N. Andover caught a pickerel weighing 1-8 that was worth $50; and Daan Berube of Dracut had a pickerel weighing 1-8 that was good for $25. Dan's fish was 3/4 of an inch shorter than the second place finisher.

The Greater Lowell Fly Fishers club will hold an ice-fishing derby on Lake Mascuppig in Tyngsboro this Sunday, January 28. Entry fee is $10 and the derby sets up at the Dracut boat ramp at oh-dark-30. GLFF offers prizes for the top ten fish. The derby ends at 2 p.m., so there's plenty of time for a snooze before the Super Bowl game.

The GLFF then moves to Long-Sought-For in Westford for their second derby, on February 4. The HQ will be at the Legion post.

The big Pepsi-Rotary Derby will be held February 10-11 in New Hampshire, with the headquarters on Meredith Bay. This big event draws some 5,000 anglers to the Granite State, and it's the biggest ice fishing derby in New England.

Lake-Side Bait will hold a second fishing derby on Lake Mascuppig, on February 18, ice permitting. A flyer announcing the derby said, on the front, that fishing runs from 7 a.m. to 2, but on the back it said the starter's horn goes off at 7:30 a.m.! The first half-hour often sees the best fishing, and I'd hate to suffer a half-hour penalty due to confusion. I've been trying to reach the folks at Lake-Side, so stay tuned.

The 20th Eastern Fishing & Outdoors Expo takes to the Worcester Centrum on February 1-4.

Wilmington will host the World Fly-Fishing Expo March 9-10, at the Shriner's Auditorium. More on this one later.

Game summary
 During the Christmas Holiday weekend, the Tewksbury Pee Wee IV youth hockey team battled the Burlington PeeWee III team in Dual State League action.

Coach Burke's "wish list" was a short one: score goals and keep the puck out of our net and his 15 elves got the job accomplished. Less than two minutes into the game, Tim Bowden won a faceoff and Steve Chartier's shot was saved but Chase Wells fired the rebound into the net for an early lead.

Two minutes later, Burlington responded as Kelley was alone in front of the net and his shot bounced off Eric McDermott's arm and ricocheted into the net.

Still in the first period and while on a power play, Mike Beatrice swung around the net and stuffed the puck into the far corner to regain the lead for the Redmen. With one and a half minutes to go in the first period, Tim Bowden rushed the length of the ice and hit the top right corner for a beautiful goal.

The only goal in the second period was scored by Chase Wells after a mad scramble in front of the net, Chase stuffed in through the goalie's legs. Half way through the final period, Steve Chartier scored as his shot popped off the goalie's glove and over his left shoulder into the net.

The Redmen's final tally was registered by Chase Wells as he again picked up a rebound and fired it into the net for a hat trick. A playmaker award went to Tim Bowden who had four assists in this game.

The 6-1 victory sent Coach Burke home to enjoy a long winter's nap with visions of spectacular saves, pinpoint passes, dazzling defense and gorgeous goals.

Game summary
 The Tewksbury PeeWee IV team participated in the 1995 Skate 3 Christmas Classic Hockey Tournament. In their first game, the Redmen battled Andover.

The first period was scoreless as Eric McDermott had several spectacular saves in net for Tewksbury.

Two minutes into the second period Andover's Timothy Ronan picked up a rebound and his shot bounced over McDermott for the first goal of the game.

Thirty seconds later, Andover's Matt Jaques made a nifty pass to Billy Lindman whose shot from the right wing beat the goalie for a 2-0 lead.

The Redmen battled back as Steve Chartier's pinpoint pass was tipped into the net by Jeff Surette to cut the deficit in half.

The second period ended with the score 2-1 Andover. The third period was a very physical one with numerous penalties whistled. During a four on four situation, Ronan scored again to increase the Andover lead.

In the last two minutes of the game, Andover's Doug Johnson pushed in the puck after a 30 second mad scramble in front of McDermott and with less than a minute to play Robert Mazza scored a short handed goal to give Andover the 5-1 victory. The final score did not reflect the close battle of the game.

Game summary
 In their second game of the 1995 Skate 3 Christmas Classic Hockey Tournament, the Tewksbury Pee Wee IV team came out flying and controlled the action throughout the first period. However, great goalie tending by Jason Chotkowski and PAT's Travis McGuire prevented any scoring in the first period.

Four minutes into the second period, the Redmen had several chances and finally Jeff Surette poked in the rebound for the first goal of the game. The Redmen continued to dominate the game but didn't have any luck putting the puck into the net and the score remained 1-0 after two periods.

The third period had the Tewksbury team exploding for three goals. While flat on his back on the ice, Adam Butland tipped the puck into the top corner for a spectacular score. Then Chase Wells scored two goals and Tim Bowden set up Chase with a nice pass and Wells decked the goalie and slipped the puck into an open net.

The final goal was a wrap around effort by Chase Wells as the goalie was kept busy by Steve Chartier. The fine victory evened their tournament record at one win and one loss.

Game summary
 In their final game of the 1995 Skate 3 Christmas Classic Hockey Tournament, the Tewksbury Pee Wee IV team ran into a very strong Pee Wee B team from PAT.

In the first minute of the game, Andy Payette's slap shot from in tight beat Eric McDermott to giving PAT a quick lead. One minute later, PAT's Shawn Alley made a nice pass from behind the net and Andy Ruth one timed it into the net.

After another minute of action, Payette stole a clearing pass and beat the goalie for a 3-0 PAT lead. Thirty seconds later, PAT had a two on one and a great pass by Payette sent Travis Massucco in alone and he scored PAT's fourth goal of the game.

A determined effort by Matt Burke, Jeff Surette, ad Mike Beatrice resulted in Beatrice's tip in for the Redmen first goal of the game. Tewksbury played very hard for the next eight minutes but couldn't score.

Then in a 20 second span, PAT's Caterino and Alley scored goals. Beatrice made an excellent pass setting up Jeff Surette who beat the goalie low to give Tewksbury its final tally of the contest. PAT's Greene and Alley registered third period goals for the final score of 8-2.

Although the Tewksbury team only won one game in the tournament, they had a great time and demonstrated determined effort and never quit battling until the final whistle. These qualities made Coach Burke feel very proud of his team.

With only 13 seconds to go in the opening period, Methuen's Tim Fox scored for the Junior Rangers to cut the Redmen's lead to one goal. The second and third periods were dominated by the Redmen as goalie Jason Chotkowski stopped all of Methuen's shots and Tewksbury scored three more goals.

Half way through the middle period, Doug Patten scored to once again stretch the lead to two goals. Then in the third period, unassisted goals by Steve Chartier and Mike Beatrice sealed the victory. Game summary
 The Tewksbury Pee Wee IV team continued to roll in the Valley Youth Hockey League as they narrowly defeated the Andover Pee Wee IV team by a score of 1-0. Both teams received excellent goal tending and Jason Chotkowski won the showdown by shutting out the Warriors.

Eight minutes into the game, Jeff Surette set up Mike Beatrice who scored the only goal of the game. The rest of the game featured strong defensive play. The Redmen had to kill off a short handed situation in the third period. Once that was accomplished, the Redmen controlled play until the final buzzer as the crowd breathed a sigh of relief. The game was played at the Merrimack Valley Forum where every game is SRO.

Andover 1 Tewksbury 0

Game summary
 The Tewksbury PeeWee IV team had its second consecutive one to nothing game. However, in this contest the Redmen came out on the short end of the score. The game featured strong positional play and great goal tending as Jason Chotkowski once again came up big for the Tewksbury team.

The first period was scoreless as neither team had any real scoring threats. The Redmen had three power plays in the first period but could not capitalize on them.

The second period was more of the same. Three minutes into the period Chotkowski made a great leg save on a shot down low. Then while Andover was on a power play, Jason made two outstanding saves, the last one on a two on one Andover break.

With less than two minutes to go in the game, Andover's Ford fired the puck from the right face of circle and just caught the far side post for the only goal of the game.

Thirty seconds later, Tewksbury had a golden opportunity as the Andover goalie was sprawled out on the ice, but the Redmen couldn't lift the puck over the goalie.

Although it was a defeat on the scoreboard, the team played one of its best, if not its best game of the season against a very strong Andover team. Strong positional play coupled with a determined defensive effort, stymied the Andover team throughout the game.

The only goal of the game was a controversial one as there appeared to be hooking and interference by Andover immediately before the goal was scored. But, the great effort had the Tewksbury team with the heads held high.

Mite Chiefs beat Braves, 4-2

Chiefs 4 Braves 2

The Tewksbury Mite Chiefs defeated the Tewksbury Mite Braves 4-2 despite an exciting last minute come back charge by the Braves.

Jeff Little's unassisted goal in the first period gave the Chiefs the early lead. Jeff scored two more in the second for a hat trick. Matt Wilkie got an assist on one and the other was unassisted. Chris Ronayne finished the scoring for the Chiefs with a great assist from Michael Tobin.

Brendon Cotteau played a great game in net holding the Braves scoreless until the last shift of the game when the Braves managed two scores to make the finish exciting. Andrew McGuinness, Joey Ginsburg and Ronnie Gordon played tough defense all game for the Chiefs.

Mite B 3 Andover 1

The Tewksbury Mite B hockey team won a close game over a strong No. Andover team by a score of 3-1. Donny Swansburg scored first for Tewksbury early in the first period on a reflex shot from in front of the net. Michael Frazier and Michael Grasso assisted.

The 1-0 lead held up until midway through the second period when North Andover tied it. A couple of minutes later Michael Grasso shot one from the slot that broke in off the goalie's glove. Swansburg and Frazier earned the assists on this one.

North Andover turned up the heat but was rejected each time by some fine goal tending by Marc Emond in the second period and Justin DuCom in the third.

No. Andover pulled its goalie in favor of a sixth skater near the end, but Kevin Crosby banged the last nail in the coffin by scoring an open net goal with two seconds on the clock. Rock steady defenseman Michael Albano, turned in another ace performance.

Tewksbury vs Chelmsford

The Tewksbury Mite B team held a superb Chelmsford team for a tie in a 3-3 match that was close fought from start to finish. After falling behind 1-0 in the first period, Jeff Conlon tied it for Tewksbury when he slammed home the puck from the slot. Derek Beatrice earned the hardworking assist.

Chelmsford scored again to end the first period at 2-1 but Derek

Beatrice knotted it up early in the second on a scrambling shot from down low.

Justin DuCom had the net minding chores to himself this game and rose to the occasion. He kicked out many Chelmsford blasts and stood up to some breakaways from the strong Chelmsford skaters to give his team a chance for the victory.

At the end of the second period, however, Chelmsford had the 3-2 lead. Five minutes into the third period Bobby O'Leary fed a pass to Donny Swansburg who raced in on a breakaway and ripped the tying goal past the Chelmsford netminder.

Tewksbury goalie DuCom, with strong support from defensemen Michael Giasullo and Joseph DeMaio, kept Chelmsford off the board the rest of the way. The Tewksbury B's weren't conceding the tie, however, with some spectacular offensive attacks and nifty passing from Joshua Ciampa, Brian Chambers and Patrick DeVito.

Mark Martel turned in a stellar performance as a hardworking two way dynamo. Despite these efforts, Chelmsford hung tough and the game ended in the 3-3 stalemate.

TOO MANY EXPERTS!!

You have just found the house, and you are feeling excited and confused at the same time. You trust the agent who helped you find it and feel that the advice you received is solid. But you also want to get opinions about the house from your best friend, your parents, and your Uncle Chuck, who has an inactive real estate license. If you get too much input, you could find yourself even more confused than you already are. Your best friend can provide moral support, but probably doesn't know the market. Your parents may go into shock because they feel that they got so much more house for their money 30 years ago, and it cost them a fraction of the price you are going to pay. Uncle Chuck may have passed the real estate exam a few years ago, but his insights are not as crucial as those of a professional who is currently working the market. It's not that you shouldn't consult your family and friends, just don't go overboard. Rely on the advice of professionals you trust, a structural inspector, loan officer, and a good Realtor so that you can feel comfortable about having made an informed decision. WE NOT ONLY SELL REAL ESTATE - WE TEACH IT! For Cota family

New funeral home has an old tradition

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

Anthony Cota, Sr. of North Reading and Anthony Cota, Jr. of Reading love their work: "24 hours a day, 365 days a year."

In fact, they refer to the opening of their newest establishment in North Reading as "a dream come true" at a beautiful state of the art facility, conveniently located and competitively priced.

They're active members of the Lions Club, North Reading Business Association, and their respective churches, enjoying gardening, landscaping, and a good round of golf when time permits. But mostly they're in the business of helping people ... through the Cota Funeral Home which has been in the family for three generations.

And about their business, they tend to speak as one.

"We are a total family service-oriented business," they say. "It is truly our family serving your family. The opening of the Cota Funeral Home in June was a dream come true. We've lived in this area for 29 years and it has long been our desire to service it professionally. We feel we offer compassionate service from a beautiful, conveniently located, state of the art facility at very competitive prices."

The original Anthony F. Cota Funeral Home opened in Somerville in 1932 as a small store front, moved in 1943 to 197 Washington Street and underwent a name change in 1963 when Anthony R. Cota, Sr. became a licensed funeral director and embalmer. In 1990, Anthony R. Cota, Jr. also became a licensed funeral director and embalmer ... for the Anthony F. Cota & Son-Struzziero Funeral Home, Inc.; and the second Cota funeral home opened, this time at 335 Park Street in North Reading.

Anthony Cota, Sr. (president) was born in Somerville in '41, married Maria Filosi in '66, and lived in Reading from then until '87 when they moved to North Reading. They have two sons: Anthony, Jr. (vice president), who lives in Reading with his wife Kristen and their son Anthony; and Philip, who lives in New Hampshire with wife Kellie and daughter Shannon.

Cota, Sr. is a past president of the American Funeral Directors' Association and a member and officer of several related professional and regional associations. He's proud of the reputation his family has developed: "Through the years, family, friends, and employees have shared with us what our relationship has meant to them," he says. "We have dealt with the funeral arrangements of their loved ones and they have expressed sincere gratitude to us."

He's proud, also, of "Anthony, Jr.," selected in 1990 by the New England Institute of Applied Arts and Sciences at Mount Ida College as most likely to succeed in 'funeral service.'

Succeed, he has:

"The register book you provided had a great statement from your company saying that your goal is to make the family as comfortable as possible," writes Sarah. "Your business reached your goal with our family and we appreciated everything."

"He was more than a professional to us," notes Bob. "He was a friend during our need."

"A totally professional job yet very personal and caring. We couldn't have asked for more. It was a great comfort to all of us," says Jim.

"The Cotas helped make the saddest days of our lives more bearable," says Sue.

"The best part of our profession," say the Cotas, "is being able to serve families by lessening their burden during a most difficult time. It is most gratifying to know we have eased someone's agony during a traumatic situation."

COTA FUNERAL HOME in North Reading above opened last year in this spacious facility with plenty of parking. The Cota family has many years of experience in the funeral business. At right is Anthony Cota, Sr. (seated) of North Reading who has been involved as a funeral director for many years while his son, Anthony, Jr. (standing) became a funeral director in 1990.

ANTHONY MANCONI

I went to my nephew Johnny's school play, that had a happy ending, everyone was happy it ended. Johnny forgot his lines, his sister Anne ran off the stage to go to the bathroom and the stage curtain fell apart when it was lowered. The "Three Stooges" couldn't have done better.

I remember when we called our cat, "Ben Hur," until it had kittens.

My Uncle John Shea was the hiring foreman on the piers and docks of Charlestown and South Boston. He would hire only Irish for his longshoremen's crew.

One early morning a tall handsome young man asked him for a job. "Are you Irish?" Uncle John shouted. "No, but my grandmother is Irish." "Well," Uncle John exclaimed, "Tell your grandmother to report for work on pier four at five in the morning!"

Bill Burton asked Brian McCarthy for the following day off. "Why do you want the day off?" Brian asked. "It's our twenty fifth wedding anniversary." "Well, you can't have it off. I'm not going to have you coming to me every twenty five years asking me for time off!"

Our Lady of Nazareth Open House February 1

Our Lady of Nazareth Academy in Wakefield will hold an open house for prospective students on Thursday, February 1st from 6:30 pm to 8:30 pm.

The open house will provide junior high and middle school students and their parents an opportunity to view the campus and meet members of the Nazareth community, where girls run the show ("Nunsense II" coming up), play the fields (soccer, softball and a whole lot more), and make the grades (96 percent of last year's graduates went on to college, including MIT, BU, Holy Cross, and the U.S. Coast Guard Academy).

On February 1st, Nazareth students will greet visitors and guide them on narrated tours of the campus. In each classroom, a student or parents of current students will make brief presentations of various aspects of academic and extra curricular activities. Faculty members will be present to answer questions regarding curriculum. Prospective transfer students are also welcome at the open house.

Nazareth Principal Molly Kelley, Director of Admissions David Dooley and Director of Guidance Julie Dempsey will be available throughout the evening to answer questions.

Concert choir members will present mini-concerts for those students interested in Nazareth's strong performing arts program. Dr. Patricia Capone Tamagini of Wakefield will answer questions about the music program, including private and semi private voice and instrument lessons. Dr. Tamagini, a Nazareth Graduate, also directs the drama club and has been teaching at Nazareth since 1981.

OLN Athletic Director Michelle Carson will be on hand to explain the sports program and answer questions about the volleyball, soccer, basketball, softball, and tennis teams, as well as the cheerleading squad. Several OLN graduates will talk about their college experiences and how Nazareth prepared them for higher education.

During each tour, special sessions "For Parents By parents" and "For Students By Students" will be held giving prospective parents the opportunity to meet with present OLN parents while prospective students meet with current students.

Throughout the open house, OLN Parents' Guild members will serve refreshments in the cafeteria and will be available to answer questions. Students may also register for the February 3rd OLN entrance exam.

A college preparatory high school for young women, Our Lady of Nazareth Academy (owned and operated by the Sister of Charity since 1947) is located at 14 Winship Drive, on the former Winship Estate in Wakefield. The 20 acre campus and its four buildings encompass two science labs, a computer lab, a library, an art studio, a 625 seat theater, a cafeteria, a gymnasium, a chapel and academic classrooms as well as an athletic field.

This year's Nazareth students live in: Amesbury, Andover, Beverly, Billerica, Burlington, Danvers, Dracut, E.Boston, Everett, Georgetown, Hamilton, Haverhill, Ipswich, Lawrence, Lynn, Lynnfield, Malden, Marblehead, Medford, Melrose, N. Andover, N. Reading, Reading, Revere, Saugus, Somerville, Stoneham, Tewksbury, Wakefield, W. Peabody, Wilmington, Winchester, Woburn and Southern NH.

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

A chance to mind everyone's business

Wakefield sets ambitious agenda

Wakefield's Drug and Alcohol Task Force recently set an "ambitious" agenda for the upcoming year, according to the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

School department representatives, community members and parents are cooperating in four specific areas: updating the 1992 education pamphlet on alcohol, tobacco and drug information for families; possibly organizing substance-free clubs with healthy activities for young people; helping to staff and organize a community health education awareness night in February at the Dolbeare School; and investigating the creation of various intramural sports nights.

The Drug and Alcohol Task Force continues to seek new members who want to help Wakefield youth learn about the dangers of substance abuse. Meetings are held on the first Monday of each month in the Volpe Library at Wakefield High. Please call Tom Stapleton with questions.

The Wakefield Police Department through its DARE program has also made a strong commitment to the community.

The good news

"Tewksbury had a prosperous year in 1995," reports the Tewksbury edition of the "Town Crier."

"Tax revenues were up, hiring was resumed in the town, and businesses expanded or opened."

"Luckily, there were no murders, no major fires, no explosions and no hurricanes, in spite of several storms in the tropics."

No exaggeration here and no controversy: the year started off with the town approving an agreement with the developers of the new Wal-Mart outlet to install new traffic lights at Old Main Street in anticipation of the new Wal-Mart.

Mid-winter pick-up on tap

Woburn's Crowne Plaza will be the site of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce annual mid-winter, multi-chamber business card exchange on Tuesday, February 6th.

"This will be absolutely your best opportunity this year to boost your business," says Midge Gravelese of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce. "We have more than 100 chamber members from many surrounding communities, including Bedford, Billerica, Burlington, Lexington, Malden, Medford, Reading, North Reading, Stoneham, Wilmington, Winchester, and Woburn."

"We'll have display tables available for brochures, business cards and other promotional materials. Door prizes are optional, but always welcome. Don't miss this opportunity to give your business a boost!"

For more information, call Gravelese at (508)657-7211.

ANTHONY MANCONI

From S-1

I said to George Gould, "Bob Bonney told me that you read in a book that drinking is bad for the health so you gave it up." "Yes, I did, but not 'Drinking' I gave up reading books."

I remember when my Aunt Nora always took a glass of warm milk at night to help her get a good night's sleep. When for some reason she wasn't sleeping too well, her daughter Maureen, put some gin in the glass of milk and brought it up to her.

Aunt Nora sipped the milk slowly, then drank some more and finished the glass with a broad smile and slapping her knee she exclaimed, "What a cow! What a cow!"

Folks, I'll bet you know someone like my cousin Mario. He has been going with his girlfriend for years always telling her that he wouldn't marry her until he got a steady income. Well they are getting married on February 14 Valentine Day. That's when he'll get his first old age social security check.

Tony Stack told me this Irish Limerick, "There was a young fashion designer, Who went on a cruise on a liner. She fell on the deck, and twisted her neck, and now she can see what's behind her." Tony Stack is from Dublin.

George Gould got out of bed yesterday morning feeling all washed out. He opened the medicine cabinet and saw vitamin bottles with labels like, "Zip", "Pep", "Pow", "Zap", "Zing" and "Socko." George took two of each and bounced right back to bed again.

Kathy doesn't want anyone to know how much she weighs, she prefers to remain, "Enormous!"

MOVIES

by Rochelle Hynes "From Dusk Till Dawn" Short Takes

"From Dusk Till Dawn" starring George Clooney, Quentin Tarantino, Harvey Keitel, Juliette Lewis, Ernest Liu. Directed by Robert Rodriguez. Screenplay by Tarantino. Produced by Gianni Nunnari, Meir Teper. Rated R.

A vampire flick written by Quentin Tarantino and directed by Robert Rodriguez had all the fang marks of being a very cool experience. In spite of all the gore on screen, the reality is pretty bloodless.

If this had been made by any other team you could have shrugged it off as another mediocre Hollywood effort. But

Sid Levine told me that a gambler dropped dead in a casino in Las Vegas. A friend gave the eulogy saying, "Our friend Harry is NOT dead, he's asleep." A High roller shouted, "I've got a thousand dollars that says, Harry is dead!"

A cowboy said to Tony Stack the bartender, "Ginger Ale please." Tony asked, "Pale?" "No," the cowboy replied, "Just a glass full, thank you."

Folks if you think that fishermen are liars just ask a jogger how many miles he has run?

Don Harney took a picture of the Kiwanis Club new officers. He developed the picture and gave it to Ed Coletta (The Editor) who said, "Don you have three left to right names and four guys in the picture, who is the fourth man?" Don looked and said, "I think it's Clout Tomkinson who must have jump in after I took the picture."

At a wedding anniversary party, Stan Black got up and thanked his lovely wife Emy for eighteen wonderful years. Stan then turned to me and said, "Chipper I've been married to Emy for 38 years."

DREAMBOATS, Lusy Sweeney, Wakefield; Emily Collins, Melrose; Bernice Sullivan, Woburn; Dawn Pisari, Stoneham; Suzanne Geary, Lynnfield; and Jessica Chin, North Reading.

SUPERSTARS Bob Cerretani, Wakefield; Paul Calovino, North Reading; Jimmy Geary, Lynnfield; Mike Cassila, Stoneham; Bill Sullivan, Woburn; Fr. Dennis Nason, Medford; Michael and Bette Coughlin, Melrose; Father Thomas Foley, Winchester.

this was made by Tarantino, whose "Pulp Fiction" won him an Oscar for the Best Screenplay and directed by Rodriguez, whose "El Mariachi" was one of the best low budget films ever made, and then re-made as "Desperado."

engrossing road flick to an unex-plainable vampire flick.

It is at this point that you have to wonder what Tarantino thinks of women, as there is a scene outside the strip joint that promises to embarrass and enrage almost any woman. It

HARRY KIETEL (L) AND GEROGE CLOONEY appear in "From Dusk Till Dawn" a Robert Rodriguez production.

This does have plenty of that smart, hip dialogue for which Tarantino is known. The movie also boasts an offbeat and very strong cast, but the script is all over the place. In fact, you could even say it's split in half, as there are two distinct movies not so smoothly rolled into one.

Things begin promisingly with a conversation between a Texas ranger (Michael Parks) and a liquor store clerk that is vintage Tarantino. Their chat is permanently interrupted by the Gecko brothers, bank robbers on their way to asylum in Mexico. Sleek George Clooney is mean and heartless, but not insane. Not true of his mad dog killer and rapist of a brother, played with more control than you'd think by Tarantino.

der, we enter part two. Suddenly, we are transported from an features Cheech Marin as an X-rated barker whose line of patter is so base and blue and anti-female it makes you question Tarantino's arrogant desire to alienate half of his audience.

Most disappointing is that there is no dramatic tension leading to the bloodsuckers arrival, hence they are not all that scary. After the first momentary jolt, we are simply watching one long barroom brawl. It's bloodier than most, and director Rodriguez is very convincing with action scenes, but it is not frightening. It is also derivative of many other monster movies and too often lacks internal logic.

Not all is lost once the cast arrives in the land of the undead, as there is still some of Tarantino's funky dialogue and a matte painting, obvious as it is, cleverly pulls the story together in the last shot.

It is also fun to watch Marin show up in three roles and the cast, especially Clooney, is quite convincing. But none of these assets are enough to make this the ghoulish delight it should have been.

In order to cross the border undetected, the brothers kidnap a minister who hit the road in an RV with his two kids after a serious lapse of faith. Interesting family, what with Harvey Keitel as the dad, Juliette Lewis as the daughter and Ernest Liu as an adopted son. When the entire mismatched bunch hits a sleazy strip bar just south of the bor-

FACING AGING CONCERNS TOGETHER

Placing her dad in a nursing home was not what Mary wanted. "We have managed to care for Dad for the past few years, but lately, juggling my kids, and my full time job is starting to put stress on me. Actually on both of us, my husband is feeling it as well," says Mary, who didn't want her last name used.

Full time care for an aged loved one can be stressful at times. Relief from the pressures of round the clock care of an infirm senior is on its way.

A new program at Winchester Hospital's Senior Health Partnership, called Respite Care and Home Support Services gives a helping hand. The service provides company, supervision and supportive assistance to seniors in the convenience of their own home, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

The program enables well trained and supervised respite care providers, many of whom are seniors themselves, to work together with family caregivers to motivate and guide older adults toward improved health and functional ability. They offer home support services to seniors with such tasks as light housework, meal planning, shopping laundry, reminders for medication and doctor appointments, and transportation, as well as physical, social and mental stimulation.

Call the Senior Health Partnership Home Support Service Program today and let a respite care provider come to your home. For more information, contact Donna Murray at 617-756-4756.

How does this compute?

For richer and poorer

Recent statewide data - collected from 61,000 public school fourth graders - suggests a wide gap between home computer ownership in the state's richer and poorer communities. For example, seven percent of Dover-Sherborn fourth graders don't own computers while 81 percent of Chelsea fourth graders don't own computers.

The analysis below by the "Stoneham Independent" considers those conclusions, given statistics from Stoneham, Medford, Woburn, Burlington, Melrose, Wakefield, Reading, and Winchester.

In the neighborhood

According to the state report, 46 percent of Stoneham's fourth graders do not own computers, a figure which places them in the lower half of the communities polled. Other local communities show the following numbers of children without computers at home: Medford - 53 percent of the children do not have computers; Woburn - 50 percent; Burlington - 38 percent; Melrose - 37; Wakefield - 35; Reading - 27; and Winchester - 22.

For example, children without computers in Concord number 15 percent; in Harvard, nine percent; and in Weston, eight percent while children without computers in Lawrence number 72 percent.

Countryside

Massachusetts figures, according to the "Independent," appear to echo a national trend - families, according to 1993 Census figures, earning more than $75,000 are almost seven times more likely to have computers than the poorest families and twice as likely to own computers as families earning between $30,000 and $40,000.

Several technology "experts" are of the opinion that the computer gap will leave the poor further behind than ever in their efforts to 'keep up.'

Linda Roberts, director of the Office of Educational Technology at the U.S. Education Department, feels information is power. State Senator David Magnani, co-chair of the Legislature's Education Committee feels "there is just no substitute for having a computer at home." and Robert McClintock, director of Columbia University's Institute for Learning Technologies, is concerned about the computer gap but wonders if it's only transitory: what we don't know, he says, what with more and more people buying personal computers, is whether 40 percent of the population will acquire them - or 95 percent.

Caution

Some experts caution that just having a computer at home does not necessarily mean children have an advantage.

According to the Massachusetts survey - which reached more than 61,000 fourth graders, while 52 percent of those surveyed had computers at home, the majority used those computers mainly for games.

Policy

The solution, some think, for those making "computer" policy is to make sure that students are exposed to computers at school. Efforts are being made around the country at federal, state and local levels to make computers more available at school. In Massachusetts, the ed' reform architects recognized the need for more computers in school, notes Magnani, but there are other pressing needs for educational dollars, such as giving children a better start in their early school years and helping them learn to read.

The bottom line

Analysts, according to the "Independent," have estimated that U.S. consumers will have bought 9.5 million personal computers in 1995, up 27 percent from 7.5 million in 1994.

"I do think that having access to a computer right now," says Magnani, in the "Independent," "is akin to having access to a pencil 40 years ago in school. It's an absolutely critical tool in learning."

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867. We welcome student writing.

REAL ESTATE SAMPLER

This Week...
Andover

This week's Real Estate sampler focuses on Andover.

Andover is an upscale community, rich in history, education, performing arts, services and beauty. In spite of its size, it has been able to maintain a homey, small town atmosphere.

The evolution of the modern shopping mall has seen the demise of many local shopping squares. Andover, however, has been able to maintain a very diverse and profitable downtown shopping area. Foresight and creativity - holiday parades, bazaar days, the Christmas Stroll - have enabled the town to attract area shoppers to its local businesses.

Andover has worked very hard to maintain its heritage and historical value. It is presently in the midst of celebrating its 350th birthday. Once part of North Andover, Andover sought its independence in 1855. Residents of the western and southern sectors broke away and became incorporated on May 6, 1646, 26 years after the Pilgrims settled in Plymouth.

Andover has a strong public school system and is home to Phillips Academy, one of the nation's oldest and most respected preparatory schools, as well as Pike School, a private elementary school. St.

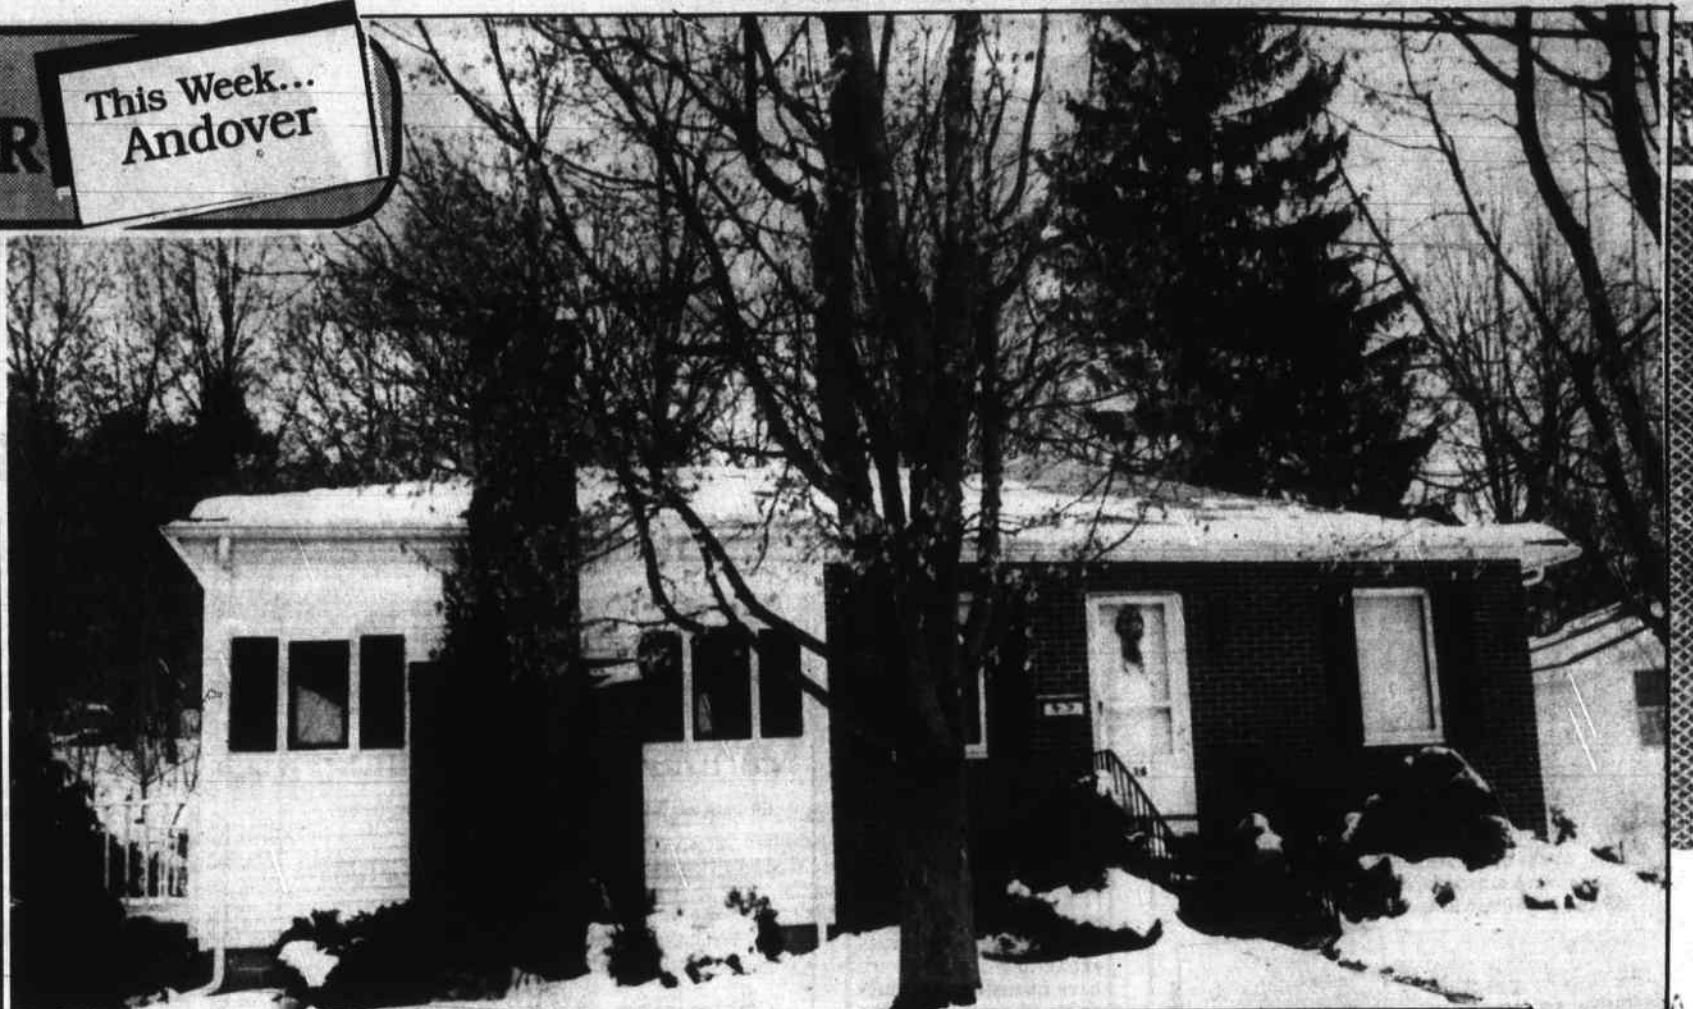

Augustine Parochial Elementary School has also serviced the town and surrounding areas for over 80 years.

Parks, playgrounds and land preservation abound within the town's limits. For conservation purposes, the town has been able to set aside more than 3,000 acres for the use and enjoyment of the townspeople. Public and community transportation, town septic and water, trash collection, recycling, airport shuttle service, and a state-of-the-art library add to Andover's appeal.

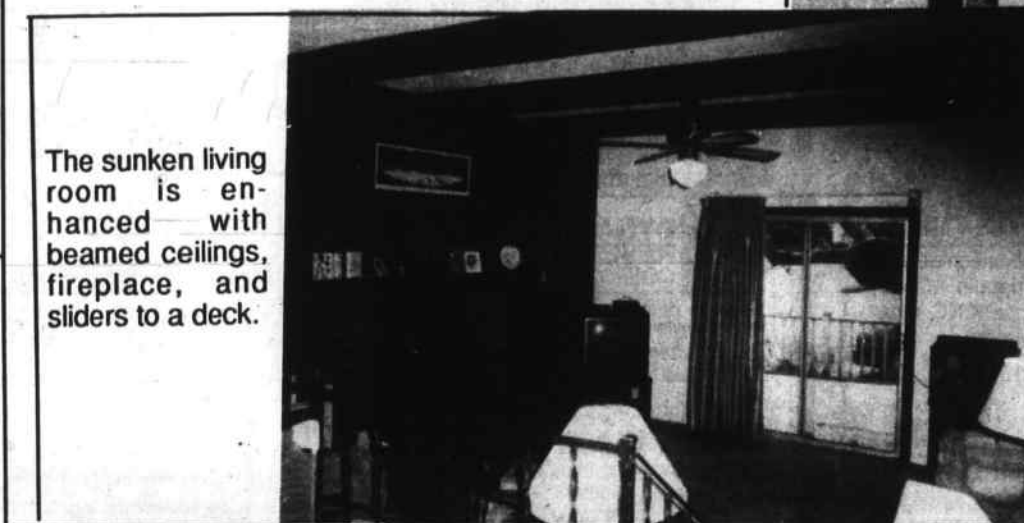

Andover's current housing market features homes ranging in price from $99,900 to $859,000.

The featured home, located at 18 Dufton Road, reinforces the affordability of Andover at the entry-level price range. Situated in the Shawsheen district, this well-maintained, brickfront, Ranch-style home offers an updated eat-in kitchen with a bay window overlooking a private lot, a formal diningroom, a fireplaced livingroom with beamed ceiling, two bedrooms (one an oversized master bedroom), a large deck and a one-car detached garage. Pride of ownership is very evident in this fine home. Offered at $154,900.

The aforementioned property is currently being marketed by Colonial Manor Realty (617) 944-6300 or (508) 664-5857.

THIS WELL-MAINTAINED, BRICK FRONT RANCH is on a private lot in the historic Shawsheen area of Andover.

The sunken living room is enhanced with beamed ceilings, fireplace, and sliders to a deck.

Skylights: a new home at the old address

One enlightening idea that can result in your getting a new home at the old address is a skylight. Since they are installed on the roof, they allow hot, stale air trapped under the ceiling to escape, and they provide a clear view of the sky.

Surprisingly, amidst the growing popularity of having a spacious, light-filled home, many people still have the misperception that all skylights leak. Experts at VELUX-AMERICA INC., a manufacturer of roof windows and skylights that has a strong record of product reliability, point out that a properly installed, weathertight skylight with proper flashing will prevent leaks.

Skylights transform interiors by creating spacious rooms filled with natural light and fresh air.

Step flashing systems, for example, rely on the principles of natural drainage to direct water away from the skylight. Since each layer of step flashing is interwoven with a layer of roofing material, the skylight can withstand the pressure of high winds, hail and inclement weather. This insures a durable weathertight installation without the need for caulk or mastics.

For installations in cold climates where severe snow and ice build-up are common, VELUX also offers a Skylight Roofing Underlayment, a rubberized, flexible material. The Underlayment is used in place of roofing felt, and it literally wraps the skylight for an additional moisture barrier underneath the flashing.

Fabulous fallacies

Myths about home buying

MYTH: The biggest barrier to homeownership in America is being able to afford the monthly mortgage payment.

FACT: Saving for the down payment is the greatest barrier to homeownership. Contrary to popular belief, many people actually pay less in their monthly mortgage payment than they currently pay in rent.

MYTH: To buy a home, you must pay a down payment equal to 20 percent of the purchase price.

FACT: A home buyer can purchase a home with as little as five percent down with the help of private mortgage insurance. Private mortgage insurance protections the lender in case the homeowner cannot repay the mortgage.

MYTH: First-time home buyers do not qualify for a home loan with private mortgage insurance.

FACT: Private mortgage insurance is a natural aid to first-time home buyers and to low-income home buyers because it lets families get into homes with less cash down.

MYTH: Mortgage insurance pays off your home mortgage in the event of your death.

FACT: No, that is mortgage life insurance. Mortgage insurance is insurance that protects a lender against the losses they may incur if the homeowner cannot repay the loan. Typically, lenders will require mortgage insurance if the down payment is less than 20 percent of the home's purchase price.

MYTH: It is very difficult to get a mortgage with only five percent down.

FACT: In fact, home loans with only five percent down are becoming increasingly popular. They are called low down payment mortgages. Over one-fourth of the mortgages that were privately insured last year involved down payments of only five percent.

MYTH: There is no difference between having a mortgage insured privately or through the government's Federal Housing Administration (FHA.)

FACT: While the FHA and private mortgage insurers play similar roles in providing affordable housing, the programs are very different. For example, private insurance can be canceled at the option of the lender or investor when the homeowner builds up sufficient equity in the home to lessen the lender's risk. In contrast, FHA insurance must be carried for the life of the loan, generally 30 years. Furthermore, private mortgage insurance is available on a wider variety of mortgage loan products and is not subject to maximum loan amounts.

Your home: Q & A

We're about to build a new home and our contractor says we can't test for radon until construction is complete. Is there anything we can do?

The Environmental Protection Agency calls it one of the best insurance policies that anyone can buy - another small, inexpensive plastic vent pipe from the basement to above the roof of a new home.

The payoff? Indoor living that's as free as possible of radon - the invisible, odorless, radioactive gas that, according to EPA estimates, causes about 14,000 lung cancer deaths a year.

Taking the same precautions in an existing home can cost between $500 and $2,500 because retrofitting the work is more difficult. In a new home, however, the cost of the work usually runs between $350 and $500.

"Essentially, the job involves a 4-inch pipe that's like other plumbing pipes running from the basement," said Nena Shaw of the EPA Radon Division. "The rest is usually work that the contractor would do anyway."

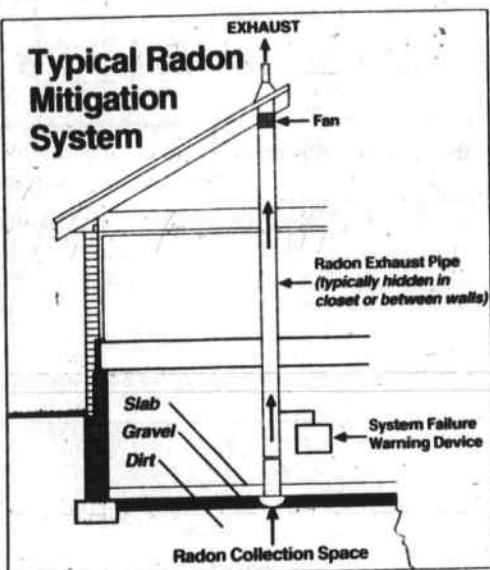

That generally involves sealing cracks in the house to prevent radon from seeping in through the soil. Radon comes from uranium, which is scattered throughout the Earth's crust so unevenly that it can cause major problems in a particular house but not in an adjoining one.

The only way to find out which house has a radon problem is to test it. Test kits are available for $15 or $20 in such retail outlets as hardware stores.

For new houses, however, no test is valid until the construction is complete. "It's good insurance for people building new homes to bet a couple of hundred dollars up front that they won't have to pay a couple of hundred dollars later in retrofitting," said Bernard Bloom, air resources planner for Montgomery County, MD. It's also a very inexpensive way to cut down on your family's chances of lung cancer." Montgomery is the only county in the nation that has an ordinance requiring the radon-reducing system in new houses.

One buyer, Barbara Zackheim, feels lucky as a result.

She tested her house for radon, and the level was no higher than for the ambient air outdoors. "Since people spend more time indoors than out," she said, "everybody should breathe this well."

To get more information about testing for radon, call the National Safety Council at 1-800-SOS-RADON.
